New Crisis in Scopes Evolution Trial

WOULD HALT EVIDENCE BY SCIENTISTS

Prosecution Attempts to Exclude from Case College Professors' Views

ARGUMENT IS HEATED

Lawyers in Squabble and Judge Cautions Them to Address Talk to Court

DAYTON, Tenn., July 16.—William Jennings Bryan denied his armor today in the fight against the introduction of scientific testimony on evolution and the Bible in the Scopes evolution trial.

The Commoner made his first speech of the trial and he unleashed his most vibrant oratory to a crowded and sympathetic courtroom.

The Commoner was dressed in keeping with the homely atmosphere of the trial. He took the floor before the judge and between the two counsel tables garbed in a soft purple shirt with a stiff front, soft collar, black bow tie and black mohair trousers.

He wielded his favorite palm-leaf fan against the stifling air of the courtroom.

Bryan's appearance as a fundamentalist champion was marked by a sharp clash between Darrow and Bryan when the latter dragged in the Loeb-Leopold case as illustrating the effects of scientific education. When Bryan concluded, Darrow decided not to speak further today, however, and left the reply to the defense to Dudley Field Malone.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 16.—The Tennessee evolution case launched into another of its crises when today's session opened in the stuffy, crowded courtroom. Attorneys immediately began argument on the question of the admissibility of scientific evidence designed to prove there is no conflict between the Bible and the theory of evolution.

This evidence was offered by the defense yesterday, when it called its first witness—Prof. Maynard Metcalf, of Oberlin college—but thus far none of it has reached the jury. Metcalf was allowed to give the court an outline of the theory of evolution, but the jury was excluded and state attorneys interposed their objections to this line of evidence.

Arguments today were on the state's objection.

Upon Judge Raulston's ruling depends whether the testimony of noted scientists and educators will be presented to the Scopes jury.

Darrow Makes Statement

Clarence Darrow made a brief statement to the judge, outlining what the defense hoped to prove by this testimony.

"We expected to show," said Darrow, "by scientists and real scholars of the Bible, first, that evolution is not, second, that evolution is not, and third, that evolution is not."

A squabble promptly broke out among counsel as to the procedure in the argument, the prosecution seeking to maneuver it so that they would have opening and closing argument on the question and the defense seeking the same advantage for themselves.

U. S. Note On China Sent Powers

WASHINGTON, July 16.—A circular note has just been sent by the U. S. government to the powers, urging appointment without delay of a joint commission, as provided in the Washington conference treaty to consider gradual abolition of extra-territorial rights in China. The note, which was delivered to foreign ambassadors should be received in London, Paris and Tokio and other capitals today.

FEDERAL AID FOR HARBOR IS ASSURED

Hoover Tells Orange County Port Advocates U. S. Co-operation Certainty

PLANS NEWPORT VISIT

Secretary of Commerce Makes Inquiry As to Possibilities of Trade

FINANCIAL AID by the federal government for Orange county Harbor will follow decision for development of the harbor by Orange county, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover told harbor advocates, at a conference in Los Angeles yesterday.

"I feel certain that federal co-operation can be obtained as soon as a development program is started," Secretary Hoover asserted. Inquiry into possibilities for a commercial harbor at Newport Beach was made by the secretary, during a half-hour interview with representatives of Orange County Harbor.

Would Develop Trade

Hoover told the delegation that department of commerce is ready to assist in developing commerce for the port, as soon as construction proceeds.

"On his next visit to the Pacific coast Hoover will make a trip to Newport bay in order to gain a better idea of opportunities of the port and to note progress in the development, the representatives were assured.

In conference with Hoover were H. A. Lake, chairman of the harbor commission; T. B. Talbot, chairman of the board of supervisors of Orange county; George P. Wilson, mayor of Newport Beach; Harry Welch, secretary of the harbor commission and T. D. Sexton, of Brown and Sexton, Santa Ana.

Sees Beach Report: The report of Gen. Lansing H. Beach, former chief of engineers of the U. S. army, together with maps and other data, especially that of 1923-24 used at the Washington hearing were placed before the commerce secretary.

These plans of the harbor commission provide for an east jetty, repair of the west jetty, dredging a 25-foot channel at the entrance and such improvements, groins and other features as may be necessary.

Hoover highly recommended the plans outlined and at the close of the interview asked that he be kept advised on progress of developments.

BLAST KILLS FARMER AND 4 CHILDREN

(By United Press)

VISALIA, Calif., July 16.—An explosion early this morning destroyed the large two-story farmhouse of H. D. Schroeder, four miles west of Dinuba, and in the fire which followed Schroeder and his four children were burned to death. The children were Myrtle, 24, Sarah, 21, Louise 13, and Arnold 8.

Authorities are working on the theory that the explosion was caused by dynamite, though there is said to be no occasion to suspect foul play. The bodies of all the victims were found in their beds.

The force of the explosion was such as to blow portions of the large house into the adjoining vineyard.

LABOR LEADER TRIES SUICIDE

HOLLYWOOD, July 16.—C. R. "Red" Gore, well known California labor organizer, shot himself at the Los Angeles hospital from a wound in the abdomen.

The attempted suicide occurred while Gore's wife and daughter were in the rear yard of the home, awaiting arrival of Murry Richardson, labor motion picture producer, on whom they had called for a consultation to determine what to do with Gore.

The labor leader suffered a nervous breakdown recently, following an appendicitis operation. His health had been failing rapidly in recent weeks, and on frequent occasions Gore had threatened to kill himself, according to his wife.

Gore announced when he arose this morning that he intended to commit suicide, and Richardson enroute to the home when the shooting occurred.

COLONEL MITCHELL VISITS SOUTHLAND

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Col. William D. Mitchell, former assistant chief of the U. S. army air service, who sprang into national prominence with his fight for a unified air force, is inspecting the fourth division air squadron here and the summer camp of the National Guard aviation corps.

Mitchell praised the progress of aviation in Southern California. He said he was particularly impressed with the new planes being constructed by Donald Douglas, Santa Monica, for the army air service. Seventy-five of the planes are being built to replace the De Havillands now in use.

The officer plans to leave tomorrow for San Antonio.

Mother, Daughter, Married Together, Obtain Divorces

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Married the same day, a mother and daughter were divorced at the same session of Judge Walter Gates' court here today.

The mother, Mrs. Bertie B. Brier, was divorced from Samuel Bonde, who objected to supporting the woman's six children, it was testified.

The daughter, Mrs. Marguerite Chaddick, received a decree from Basil E. Chaddick a few minutes later. She complained her husband, an artist, refused to work.

The double wedding occurred on March 4, 1923. Mrs. Bonde lived with her husband only three months. The daughter's married bliss lasted five months, according to the testimony.

Brakes Fail; Man And Wife Killed

SANTA ROSA, Calif., July 16.—Faulty automobile brakes cost the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Watson, here today.

Watson, 65, and his wife, 60, were coming into town from a nearby hop ranch, where they live, when he attempted to stop at a crossing for a Northwestern Pacific train.

Only one brake on his automobile held and the car was struck broadside and carried 200 feet down the track, completely demolished. Mrs. Watson was thrown out 50 feet from the crossing and her skull fractured. She died before reaching a hospital. Watson's body was mangled in the wreck of his automobile.

NAB COUNTERFEIT SUSPECTS. NEW YORK, July 16.—Eighty alleged counterfeiters, including 11 girls, all members of one gang, have been captured and are being questioned by secret service agents.

Reckless Drive Costs Neilan $500

SANTA MONICA, July 16.—Marshal Neilan, film producer, paid a $500 fine, and made an apology today for reckless driving.

He was arrested Monday night, after demolishing a blinker signal. An unidentified woman companion hailed a passing cab and disappeared.

The apology was given to Patrolman Brackett, who claimed the film man abused him at the time of his arrest.

WELSH MINERS IN CLASH WITH POLICE FORCES

(By United Press)

LONDON, July 16.—The first clash between police and miners in connection with the English coal crisis occurred today.

Five thousand miners, engaged in a local strike, surrounded at dawn the Welsh colliery in Glynneath, Glamorganshire, where 700 miners persisted in remaining at work.

When the strikers refused to disperse, the police were summoned and clashed with them. Sixteen strikers were injured.

Thereafter the working miners decided to lay down their tools, so the colliery now is at a standstill. (There is not yet any national strike in the British Isles; and the Welsh colliery strike was declared to be a purely local disturbance.)

PARADE CLIMAX OF ELKS' CONVENTION

PORTLAND, Ore., July 15.—All Portland took a holiday today for the annual Elks parade, the climax of the national convention of the E. P. O. E.

Thousands of Elks, in all sorts of costumes and regalia, marched and rode in a parade miles in length.

Scores of bands, drill teams, drum corps and novelty organizations here from the country over participated.

Outstanding among the drill teams are the Bakersfield, Calif., Swordsmen and the Jackson, Mich., Zouaves.

Bakersfield succeeded last night in wresting the drill championship from the Zouaves, who held it for five previous Elks conventions. The Zouaves, with their pyramids and wall scaling exhibitions, were as good as ever but the sharp precision of the flashing swords of Bakersfield won the judges.

Jackson succeeded in taking second place. Pasadena was third, Detroit, fourth, Seattle fifth and Boise, sixth.

Grand Esquire Grakelov, of Philadelphia, issued an order making the parade today a "he-man affair."

No women will be permitted to march. They can participate, however, by riding on floats as queens or butterfly or allegorical characters, providing their presence is necessary to work out the theme of the display.

The Elks will sponsor a drive for $500,000 with which to repair and restore the historic frigates "Constitution" according to action taken by the grand lodge.

RECORDS FOR HEAT BROKEN IN MIDWEST

Many Deaths Attributed To Torrid Wave; Relief Comes in Some Sections

124 IN WYOMING CITY

States in Mountain Area Also Suffer from Spell Of Unusual Temperature

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, July 16.—Cooler weather today brought relief to most of the middle west, which has suffered from terrific heat for the last few days. New high records were established in some sections.

The northwest reported a total of 31 heat deaths during the past six days. In Chicago, two died during the last 24 hours; Detroit also reported 24 deaths and single fatalities were reported from many cities.

In Nebraska, the thermometer boiled up to a high of 108 1-2 degrees. This was at O'Neill with North Platte registering 107 and Grand Island, 104.

States farther west also reported extreme heat. Rock Springs, Wyo., thermometers rose to 124 degrees. At Fort Collins, Colo., the mercury rose to 107.7, the highest in 40 years. At Montrose and Pueblo, it was 102.

Some crop damage is reported.

BLISTERING SUN USHERS IN DAY

DENVER, Colo., July 16.—Colorado and Wyoming were starting out today under a blistering sun, following record-breaking temperatures in both states yesterday.

The temperature in Denver yesterday was 99 degrees, the highest since 1913.

Laramie, Wyo., reported 89 degrees, the highest since 1918.

Cooler weather was forecast for this region today.

NO RELIEF FOR UTAH IN SIGHT

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 16.—Little or no relief was promised Utah today from the scorching heat that has prevailed here for the last three days. Tuesday the thermometer registered 102.6.

Yesterday was slightly cooler however, with a maximum temperature of 100.2. Today the mercury is expected to hover around the 100-degree mark.

ALL CLIMBERS OF MOUNT LOGAN SAFE

CORDOVA, Alaska, July 16.—All members of the A. H. McCarthy party, which scaled Mount Logan, second highest peak in North America, are safe, according to reports reaching here today.

Captain McCarthy and two members of his party were delayed in making their journey down the Chitina river, but reached lower waters later, it was said.

All but one of the nine men reached the summit of Mount Logan, 19,540 feet, according to those returning here. The mountain is the second highest peak in North America, being exceeded only by Mount McKinley.

Weather conditions were doubtful during the early days of the climb, but later were entirely favorable, it was reported.

MAN BELONGS WELL UP IN GROUP OF PRIMATES, SAYS EVOLUTION THEORY EXPERT

(By United Press)

DAYTON, Tenn., July 16.—"What is evolution?"

In answering this question, put to him by Clarence Darrow, after the jury in the trial of John T. Scopes had been sent from the courtroom, Maynard M. Metcalf, zoologist, formerly connected with Oberlin college, began what the defense hopes will be the educating of Judge Raulston in modern science from anthropology to comparative religions.

"The fact of evolution is absolute," Metcalf replied. "There are, however, dozens of theories of evolution, some absurd."

"Evolution means the change of one organism from one character to a different char-

Open War On Flappers Smoking Fags

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—War was declared today on cigarette-smoking flappers in California high schools.

Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, has joined with the California Anti-Cigarette league in the campaign against use of the cigarette by both the high school girls and their male counterparts.

"I have no quarrel with cigarette smoking by adults," Wood said, "but I am heartily in accord with the league's move to check the cigarette habit among school children and especially among young girls."

The Anti-Cigarette league of California is seeking to abolish smoking in all forms, according to James A. Walton, state superintendent. "But we are particularly at war with use of the deadly cigarette by the younger generation," Walton said.

BIDS OPENED FOR SHIPPING BOARD FLEET

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Henry Ford has offered $1,706,000 to the government's fleet of 200 laid-up vessels, it was disclosed today when bids were opened at the shipping board.

A bid of $2,444,000, submitted by the A. P. Wilson Ocean Power company, Bar Harbor, Me., was the highest.

Frank Harris Sons, Inc., Chicago, submitted a proposition to give the government a $1,250,000 guarantee for the 200 ships and 50 per cent of the profits from sale of the scrap. The entire equipment should bring $5,500,000, a letter from the company stated.

A bid of $650,000 for the fleet was submitted by August A. Weber and Dan Robins of Buffalo.

HALF MILLION LOSS IN PORTLAND FIRE

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—Fire broke out shortly after noon today on the lower Portland waterfront and it still was raging this afternoon, after having caused an estimated damage of $500,000.

Destruction to the Beaver-Linton Lumber company plant was complete. A. G. Peterson, owner, declared the loss would amount to $250,000.

An adjoining mill of the West Coast Lumber company was swept by flames. It was in this plant the fire broke out. The main saw mill was saved but the planing mill and much cut lumber was burned.

The fire marshal estimated the total loss at close to half a million dollars.

EXPECT BIRDS WILL ASSIST IN MYSTERY

Officers Focus Their Eyes On Horizon of Hills For Help in Cookson Enigma

ADMIT NO PROGRESS

Sheriff's Squad Still Is At Loss In Effort to Solve Puzzle of Missing Woman

By GEORGE HART

OUT OF THE weird minds of the supernatural, practical man-hunters today sought to pluck a common-sense explanation of Mrs. Virginia Lee Cookson's disappearance.

Brushing aside the curtains of psychic phenomena that were wrapped about her case by Mrs. Cookson herself, before she dropped out of sight Monday night, the authorities continued to press their double search—one for the body of the Arden Forest's farm-ette, the other for a key to the puzzle situation.

The "buzzard watch" was started today by searchers in Santiago and tributary canyons.

"If she is dead and hidden hereabouts, the buzzards will tell us," was their ominous forecast. Accordingly keen eyes swept the horizon of the hills, to detect the first circling convention of the grim carrion.

Discount Torm Letter

"We're not going too strong on premonitions," declared one official, referring to the torm letter found at Mrs. Cookson's home which told of her fear of approaching disaster.

"What we want is not premonitions but facts, or clues to facts. There's plenty of mystery in this case without making it out to be more of a mystery than it really is," he added.

While pursuing the theory that Mrs. Cookson was attacked and slain by some fiend, possibly the same, unknown man whom she reported as attempting to wreck her car on the locally mountain road twice before, the authorities therefore delved elsewhere as well, hoping to pick up a loose thread of her life that would lead them to solution of the mystery and perhaps to Mrs. Cookson herself.

Sheriff Is Baffled

Sheriff Sam Jernigan today admitted that he has so far been unable to force a way through or around the blank wall across the path of the search. The sheriff intimated that his task, in this respect, has been made more difficult than necessary. In declaring that he has been unable to find so much as a starting point, beyond the actual physical task of tracking the woman from the automobile where she was apparently attacked at the county park, Jernigan hinted that he had not been told everything that is known about Mrs. Cookson.

Those nearest to the Modjeska ranchwoman have proved reticent in their discussion of the case. When interviewed by newspapermen yesterday at Mrs. Cookson's home, Charles F. Greer, caretaker of the ranch, declined to state his theory of the disappearance.

Doesn't Care to Talk

"I don't want to say. But I don't think they'll ever find her in this canyon," he remarked. He refused to explain this statement. Greer then refused to pose for a photograph, and the press representatives were forced to use strategy. While a reporter engaged Greer in conversation over fruit trees, Greer meanwhile keeping a wary eye on the camera mounted on a tripod, the cameraman moved away a short distance and calmly snapped several poses of Greer with an extra camera he had hidden under his coat.

Walter M. Cookson, husband of the missing woman, was located by the reporters in Orange. He also denied having a theory of his wife's disappearance, but in refusing to pose for a photograph, he dropped a remark upon which the newspapermen seized.

"You should let us print your photograph," he was told. "If your wife has suffered a lapse of memory and has wandered away, the sight of your photograph in a newspaper might restore her. Such things have happened."

"The man who says my wife will not let her see a newspaper, you may be sure," Cookson retorted.

Then Takes Departure

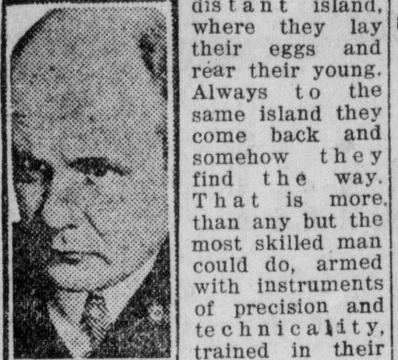

"You do have a theory then?" he was asked, but Cookson turned and hurried away.

Not to be balked in their efforts to photograph him, the newspapermen followed in an automobile. Cookson stopped half a block away to converse with an officer. The press car rolled up to the curb, unnoticed by Cookson, and the cameraman obtained several fine poses.

Cookson did not go into the hills yesterday to assist in the search, it was said. The hunt, including the dragging of the

THIS is written a thousand miles from the nearest land. Outside a three frigate birds soaring and swooping, watching the water for fish and following in the wake of the vessel for food thrown overboard from the kitchen. A thousand miles in the straightest line these birds must at least have flown. Actually, they have probably been out for months, finding their own way without compass or sextant, over the unmarked deep. Once a year they fly to some far-distant island, where they lay their eggs and rear their young. Always to the same island they come back and somehow they find the way. That is more, than any but the most skilled man could do, armed with instruments of precision and technicality, trained in their use.

No man, by his unaided senses and intelligence, could do it, even in an airplane of unlimited endurance and inexhaustible supplies. He would know his directions only vaguely by the sun, and his position, and the position of his objective, not at all. Some faculty beyond our reach, beyond even our imagination, guided these birds to find their way where there is no way. Don't think that human intelligence is the only sort of intelligence, or that its high faculties are the only high ones.

THREE miles straight down is the bottom of the ocean. A thousand miles farther on, it is still three miles deep. Off that bottom rise the volcanic Hawaiian Islands.

The process of their making is visible and is not yet finished. On the easternmost island the lava is still flowing, and the island is still enlarging. There are two forms of lava, the "pahoehoe" and the "aa," which the rains disintegrate into soil at different rates. From flows whose date is unknown, the rate of disintegration is known.

The same rains gradually wear down the outlines in which the deposits are originally made. On the island next to the lava, the lava has stopped, but the rains have made only minor alterations in the forms. As we go westward, the rains have done their work more and more—though these islands are less, not many, rays—until on the westernmost island the volcanic soil has no volcanic outlines. The only rational explanation is that the islands were made by the process that is still going on, in a time that can be computed from, and that the western islands are older and the eastern ones progressively younger.

This is the testimony of the rocks in one of the few places on earth where the process is uniform and simple, and is so visible that anyone can see and understand it.

The time to pile up islands up three miles to the bottom and three miles to the tops of their highest peaks, and for the rains to form the soil and erode the outlines, is enormous.

The question is, does Mr. Bryan deny this testimony of the rocks, and make God a liar, merely because Moses had not seen them and has nothing to say about them?

SCORE one more for the Pacific. The Albatross expedition found the famed Sargasso Sea in the Atlantic, relatively speaking, animal and vegetable life, but going into the Pacific, it found a region teeming with specimens; plankton of every variety, from microscopic diatom to tiny crustacean; small creatures preying on these, and larger ones on those, and finally to the great sharks, sea lions, and whales, whose carcasses, in turn, consumed by big and little, made the whole cycle over again.

On the border of two currents, warm and cold, all these were concentrated in unexampled richness.

There is a strong fierceness in the sea. All the creatures in it are cannibals, and none of them ever lives to die a natural death. Each one spends its whole life pursuing and being pursued, and only one in a million lives to buff orerine. That one begets a million descendants, so the race survives. The individual does not count.

OUT of the sea we all came. Our salts are in our blood; our temperature is that of the primordial waters, before the earth cooled; our life is still internally aqueous, a "combustion in a moist medium," and our most delicate mechanisms regulate our internal sea, that it may continue the conditions to which life was originally adapted. Physically, we are of the sea.

And spiritually, we have abolished of its murderous ruthlessness not much except the waste of cannibalism. A soldier medium gives us better protection, so we can survive with less than the earth and its springs and its few land species, of which man is imperfectly one, have substituted gregarious co-operation for individual competition.

On this is founded what little approach to morality we have yet achieved. The sea is profoundly immoral. The land is imperfectly moral.

CHILD IN HUMBLE HOME MAY RECEIVE 3 MILLIONS OF RAIL MAN'S ESTATE

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, July 16.—Ten-year-old Joel Wolfe Thorne Jr., reported to be living in a ramshackle house in Denver, Colo., will receive bequests totaling more than $3,000,000 and an annual income twice as large as the president's salary, if court action instigated by his mother here today is successful.

The child would receive $1,000,000 outright from the $15,000,000 estate of his grandfather, Samuel Thorne, once a partner of James J. Hill, famous railroad builder of the northwest, the mother claims. Other bequests, totalling more than $2,000,000, would come from the estate of the boy's father, a New York banker.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Mary Casey Thorne, announced through her attorney today that she would ask Surrogate Foley of New York county, to appoint her as guardian of her own son, who is said to be living in comparative poverty in the western city.

Mrs. Thorne said she secretly married the boy's father at a New York hotel in 1911. A few years later, their romance shattered, they separated, she said, claiming that as a result her son was "spirited away."

The Well-Dressed Man

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

IS THE WING THE THING?

The line of demarcation between what a man wears for the various seasons is not as sharply defined as it used to be. Who does not recall the time when the winter suit was heavy and bulky, like the Englishman's? Today, the weight of our clothes is very much the same whether in winter or summer. Unlike the seagirt isles of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, we have a more equable climate, as well as a dryer one. Therefore, extremely heavy materials are not required either in underwear or outer wear. As concerns collars, the wing type has long been accepted as a shape that goes better with cool weather than warm. However, this rule is now more honored in the breach than the observance. The sort of a collar to wear is one that you feel most comfortable in and that befits the cut of your job. If a man has a long, lean face, no collar as much as the wing serves to counterbalance the effect of thinness and high cheek bones by the outward flare of the tabs in front.

Always be mindful that becomingness to the individual is the most important consideration in dress. Style is secondary, because the style that looks admirable upon another may look questionable upon you. What is the secret of the smart appearance of the well-turned-out Englishman or Frenchman? Simply this—he tries out various effects and finds out the one effect that is most flattering to his face and figure. Then, he sticks to it, regardless of the seesaws and somersaults of fluctuating fashion.

Have you ever worn the wing collar together with the bow-knot tie, as sketched here? If you haven't, how do you know that this combination is not becoming to you? Don't assume. Prove yourself right or wrong. "Our doubts are traitors and makes us lose the good we oft might win by fearing to attempt." Don't remain encrusted with the stucco of habit and custom. Keep an open mind. Try new and different styles. That's the only way to make the most of your advantages and the least of your shortcomings, for every man has both.

The wing collar and bow-knot tie, reproduced here, should be worn with a waistcoat, if the heat permits. Many well-dressed men never leave it off. The brightly striped design in the tie is well set off against the background of the plaid-patterned madras shirt, as stripes in both tie and shirt convey a sameness of treatment which is never to be recommended. Your wing collar should be a conservative shape with tabs neither too broad nor too narrow.

Bruff is a well-known exponent of all the good points of the evolution theory, but is known throughout the vicinity for his lectures on the harmony between science and religion. PAVING SUITS ARE BEING TRIED HERE

The superior court departments were occupied exclusively with municipal injunction proceedings today.

In Department 2, Judge R. Y. Williams was hearing the suit brought by Leonard Evans, Anaheim attorney, to restrain the city of Fullerton from awarding a contract to pave North Richmond avenue and two other streets in the district and claims the paving proceedings carry liability of damage to the property owners. He attacked the proceedings on technical grounds. City Attorney F. H. Lyon appeared for the defense.

Argument upon a demurrer to the petition of Elizabeth Grafford and other property owners who are seeking an injunction against the city of Huntington Beach was scheduled to be heard by Judge Z. B. West in Department 1. This also concerned a paving contract.

The property owners object to the award of a contract to pave Seventh street, Huntington Beach, to Contractor George M. Souten. Their petition includes criticism of paving laid by Souten on other streets in the city.

NAB 2. CHARGE FAILURE TO AID IN AUTO CRASH

Charged with failing to stop and render assistance after an automobile accident, a felony offense, Julian Salcido, 18, Mexican, and Jitengo Iwata, 18, Japanese, both of Tustin, were arraigned before Justice Kenneth Morrison yesterday and bound over, their examination being set for July 22, at 9 a. m.

Mrs. J. G. Walker, of Kent, Wn., victim of the pair's alleged reckless driving, still is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where she was taken following a crash on the state highway, five miles south of San Juan Capistrano, on Tuesday. She was badly cut in a collision with the truck driven by the young Mexicans, and also is suffering from abrasions.

Arrests of Salcido and Iwata followed complaints of a wild drive along the state highway from the south, the truck passing traffic on the wrong side of the road, cutting in and being otherwise driven in a reckless manner, according to declarations of others who had narrow escapes from being hit.

Bail of $2500 was fixed by Judge Morrison. The two are in the county jail awaiting trial.

SEE-SAWING

BY EDDIE WEST

Up and Down Fourth Street

See-sawing up and down Fourth street while Santa Ana sweaters through its fourth consecutive day of stifling weather—a haze-like humidity blankets the city—Heat waves dance from asphalt partially melted by the rays of the year's hottest sun.

Saw a woman, old enough to know better, and around whose neck was draped a white fur. She was sweating. Gave her as frigid a glance as possible under the circumstances and galloped on. . . . Settled an argument on Harry Bladen, the rotund real estate man, who held correctly that Wednesday was a hotter day than Tuesday. It was 97 yesterday, 95 on Tuesday. . . . Was halted by Murray Vander-mast and Murray, for some unaccountable reason, did seem mightily and gravely interested as to whether Washington had won its American league ball game today. . . . Talked to Jack Fisher, a hero of the World war, who came back to his home city and left others to discover, months later, that he had been decorated many times by notables for bravery under fire and Jack did confess that nothing scared him as much as a mouse. . . . Discussed the thermometer with Walter Vieira, who probably knows more tresses than any barber in our city and under cross-examination Walter confessed that his success possibly was due to the fact that he cut their hair like they asked to have it cut which from a barber was a great admission. "Why not?" asks Vieira. "You couldn't argue with a woman, anyway."

Saw Ralph Greenleaf, the world's champion pocket billiard player in an exhibition here and he is a feminine pulse-stopper if ever there was one. He looks more like Rudolph Valentino than Rudolph does himself. . . . Saw Clyde Bishop, the noted barber, abroad in our streets and he do have the habit of carrying his head at a slight angle as he walks. . . . Passed W. S. McVay, a little man with a heart of gold, who is a man of means now because he attended to business when he was in business. Remember the fight that "Mac" put up with the city council for permits that would allow his newspaper carrier boys to ride their bicycles on the sidewalks on rainy mornings. It meant a $5 fine if the "coppers" caught you riding sidewalks then. That wasn't many years ago, but carrier boys don't need to ride sidewalks now because all the streets are paved. . . . Saw Horace Fine, veteran of all Santa Ana newspapermen, remove his coat, vest and a chapeau while knocking off a yarn on his typewriter and said act was proof enough that it was a scorcher of a day, for Horace seldom does a trick like that. . . . Discovered there was sentiment in business and stories all along the route when Addie Sue Tucker, cashier at the busy White Cross Drug company, told me she has saved close to $100 in pennies that customers gave her to help swell a Texas vacation trip fund.

Saw E. D. Yost, the theater man, and he told me of receiving a card from William Kolb of the stage comedy team of Kolb and Dill and on this card Kolb denied he and Dill had dissolved partnership. "Our next show is going to be our best and it will be in Santa Ana next December," Kolb wrote. . . . Chatted with the Rev. W. H. McPeak, local pastor, and was delightfully surprised to learn that he talks baseball most intelligently and knows personally many of the game's "big guns."

Got a note from the boss and was thrilled beyond words to know that somebody was reading this stuff. Laugh, you clown! You would be thrilled too. . . . Saw Bruce Switzer, business manager of Rankins, and he did appear cool and comfortable in summer habilitment. . . . Saw a woman with a thick pillow under her elbows leaning on the window sill of her apartment house room and on the pillow beside her was a snippy-nosed dog. They both were trying to steal a breath of a fanning breeze. . . . Spotted Joe Backs, the county clerk, in the act of buying some new fishing tackle and suspected that Monsieur Backs was about to depart for a vacation.

Completion of Sanitary Area To Be Celebrated

PLACENTIA, July 16.—Plans for a festival celebrating completion of the Placentia Sanitary District were laid at the meeting of the Merchant's Division of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, held here last night.

Completion of the outfall sewer, nearly 18 miles in length, is expected within a few weeks, according to representatives of the organization, and the celebration will take place immediately following the finish of the work.

P. S. Lucas, secretary of the Merchant's and Manufacturers Association of Santa Ana, spoke before the local businessmen, telling them of co-operation between merchants.

Committees were appointed to investigate the feasibility of holding the "booster days" which were so popular during the winter months.

Car Turns Over But No One Hurt; 7 Persons Escape

FULLERTON, July 16.—When a car driven by S. S. Grunwald, of Buena Park, turned over at the intersection of Highland and Commonwealth avenues here last night, seven persons in the car narrowly escaped death, according to spectators of the wreck.

Grunwald's machine approached the intersection, according to reports, and when nearly across, was struck forcibly in the rear by a car driven by Mrs. Ethel M. Ferguson, of 646 West Wilshire avenue, Fullerton. The Grunwald car, a sedan, turned completely over, spilling its occupants into the street, but injuring none of them, outside of a few scratches and bruises, police reported.

WOMAN CUE CHAMP PLAYS AT BALBOA

BALBOA, July 16.—Mrs. Bertha M. King, world's champion billiard player, with her husband, William King, gave an exhibition here yesterday afternoon and evening at the Balboa Recreation Parlors. In addition to playing matches, they demonstrated difficult shots.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's hero — Dave Bancroft, manager of the Braves, tripled in the third inning and drove in two runs beating the Pirates 4 to 3.

The Giants pulled up within five points of the Pirates by beating the Cardinals, 7 to 3.

The Athletics regained first place in the American league when they won a double header from the White Sox at 9-7 and 11-5.

Ken Williams hit his 22nd homer but it was not needed as the Browns romped away from the Red Sox 11 to 3.

Burleigh Grimes returned to good form and pitched the Robins to a 5 to 2 victory over the Reds.

Alexander doubled in the second inning with the bases filled and turned in three runs that helped the Cubs beat the Phillies 8 to 3.

The Yankees missed a good chance to win a double header when they went 12 innings to lose to the Indians 5 to 4 after winning the first 9 to 4.

A Service That Adds Interest to the Home

Able Service by Our Arts and Decorations
Department in Securing Pretty Windows

Draperies may be purchased on the Horton Easy Payment Plan, with a small initial cash
payment.

THERE was a time—and not so long ago—when a room was furnished on a one-color basis. A "correct" room was blue or green or brown or mulberry; and all its furnishings—its rugs, its upholstery, its draperies and wall coverings—were selected to repeat the chosen color with unvarying faithfulness.

Now we consider such a room "deadly." It lacks interest. It is depressing in its monotony.

How much more satisfying is the room in which a number of colors are pleasingly combined. A room with accent, with "rise and fall" in its inflection!

It is the purpose of Horton's Arts & Decorations Dept. to help you introduce interesting "accent notes" in your rooms. It costs no more to use this service—we furnish the designs for your windows, make up the hangings in our workshops, put them up, and you have the guiding hands of experts and artists throughout.

Estimates are cheerfully furnished.

Do Business Men carry too much in their heads?

It's fine for an executive to be able to remember things—it's fine when he's there to answer every question. But why should important business be held up and blocked for hours and sometimes days at a time just because the man who remembers the details happens to be away from the office? A well filed business goes on like clock work, with a saving of time and energy. We have files and indexes for many purposes, to fit most any case that arises. File it and forget it, is the best way to dispose of a mass of detail.

SICK WOMEN ATTENTION!

Read this Remarkable Testimony
Regarding Results from Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Norfolk, Virginia. — "If you only knew how many women and girls have taken your medicine by hearing my testimony, it would seem wonderful to you. Every day and every chance I have I advise some one to try it. It was in June, 1904, when I had given up everything well, that I wrote to you. My husband went to the drug-store and brought the Vegetable Compound home to me. In a few days I began to improve and I have often taken it since. I am now passing through the Change of Life and still stick to it and am enjoying wonderful health. When I first started with your medicine I was a mere shadow. My health seemed to be gone. The last doctor I had said he would give me no more local treatments unless I went to the hospital and was operated on. That was when I gave the doctors up. Now I am a healthy robust woman. I wish I could tell the world what a wonderful medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is." — Mrs. J. A. Jones, 317 Colley Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia.

Dinner and Program Are Enjoyed by Local Y. L. I.

Seventy-five members of Capistrano Institute No. 104, Y. L. I. enjoyed a delicious dinner Monday evening at Knights of Columbus hall, with a most efficient committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Arnella Klatt, planning all of the details.

The tables were set in the form of a hollow square and decorated with varicolored flowers artistically arranged in flower bowls and baskets. Place cards were in the shape of fern pots and nut cups carried out the appointments of blue and white, the institute colors. Efficient young waitresses were pretty headbands in the same tints. The menu included watermelon cocktail, fried spring chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, carrots and peas, cucumber and tomato salad, coffee, ice cream and cake and salted nuts and candies.

Mrs. Olive Lopez acted as toastmistress, calling upon the chaplain, the Rev. Father St. John O'Sullivan, of San Juan Capistrano mission; the newly-elected president, Miss Mary Maag and the retiring president, Miss Clara Blesener. The in-going and outgoing officers and the dinner committee were also presented by the toastmistress and received the unstinted applause of the diners.

Father O'Sullivan followed up the theme of enthusiasm, as presented by the toastmistress, as being the soul of man come to life. When one loses enthusiasm, the spirit of life begins to flicker and one becomes a "has-been." The priest made reference to the Dayton, Tenn., case in his earnest manner and announced also that Sunday, August 16, will be Y. L. I. day at the price has been made for members and their families. Miss Frances Hillman was given charge of the tickets.

Miss Mary Maag was presented with a beautiful corsage bouquet with the hope that her new position would prove a bed of roses. A pledge of the co-operation of the members was made with the gift. In responding, the new president promised a year as prosperous as the past one, if the members would co-operate with her in her earnest desire to give service.

A beautiful Y. L. I. pin was presented to the retiring president, Miss Clara Blesener. She was told that many months ago a grave responsibility was pinned upon her and that she had ably carried out her obligations as president, leaving a very prosperous organization. Now, something else would be pinned upon her, which it was hoped would not be a burden but would fasten her to the past president's chair at every meeting during the next year and to the institute forever. Miss Blesener said that she had prepared a speech in the usual formal manner, but she was so overcome with her gift, that she had forgotten her words, but spoke feelingly and appreciatively and pledged her future co-operation to the institute.

Miss Lillie Sutherland read a beautiful original poem dedicated to the institute.

Installation of the new officers had to be postponed, as the duties could not be present. The meeting on July 28, will be omitted as the chair officers will be at Grand Institute in the Yosemite. The next meeting will be August 11, when installation will take place.

Jay See See Crowd Dances at Balboa

A rendezvous at the Rendezvous was the enjoyable experience of half a hundred Jay See Sees last night when, with their "femmes," they wooed the goddess Terpsichore amidst the cooling Pacific breezes at Balboa.

The Rendezvous orchestra was voted an extremely spirited organization which offered a program of the latest and liveliest dance music, and the Jay See Sees felt very "collegiate" indeed as they trod the lively measures. One section of the popular dance hall was reserved especially for the Junior Chamber men and their guests, and there, in the intervals of dancing, the hundred or more patrons, found cooling refreshment in the iced punch flowing so freely.

Dr. C. W. Johnson was chairman of the committee planning the dance with Dr. C. V. Doty and E. M. Sundquist as his expert aides.

Dancing Tonight At Re-opened Hall

An unusually large crowd is being anticipated for tonight at the recently re-opened Elite dance hall on East Third street where the second dance of the season will be held. The opening last week was extremely well attended and patrons were so delighted with the re-decorated hall, the excellent music by the Dysart orchestra and the character of the entertainment offered, that it is thought the warm night expected will have no effect whatever on tonight's attendance.

How to Wear Picture Hats

"The small hat for chic, the large one for loveliness," says Henri Bendel, New York fashion authority.

"Again America is asserting her independence, and is wearing the wide-brimmed hat. Paris will have none of it. No matter how friendly the sun becomes, she remains loyal to the small close hat.

"But in New York, the large hat has won the day for afternoon and evening. With the flowered chiffon and crepe frocks, you see the large hat, usually trimmed very simply with velvet ribbon or flowers. It completes the costume quite perfectly, and if America likes to be picturesque, apparently there is very little Paris can do about it."

Of all his collection of millinery, the two photographed seemed the most lovely and wearable.

The leghorn model has a deep, well-fitted crown of black velvet with a wreath of twisted orange ribbon and green and gold foliage. And two roses of orange and rose color distributed judiciously on the underbrim.

The other is a combination of brown hair straw and lace forming a most delightfully airy brim. A girl with copper-colored hair would be mighty dangerous in it. However, even the large hat needs a few warnings.

"Don't," he urges, "wear it if you are short and heavy. You will be too suggestive of the mushroom."

"Don't wear it pulled sharply over your face unless you are the stunning type with perfect features. If you want to be flattered, use it for a frame and let it droop kindly and be careful where it casts shadows."

"Don't forget that the light colors belong to youth and youthful complexions. The dark, rich colors are much more kindly disposed toward the mature woman.

"Don't let the trimming of your hat complicate the line and give a heavy effect."

"Don't forget that the crown must fit as smoothly and neatly as it does in a small hat. It must be the right depth, too. Nothing is less picturesque than the large hat with the shallow crown that gives the effect of sitting on top of the head."

"Don't wear a white hat unless you are so beautiful it doesn't matter what you wear, unless you use a darker facing."

"And finally," he concluded, "don't wear your big hat with a self-conscious air, or don't strive for obvious picturesqueness. Forget it entirely. Only by obeying this last mandate can you give it real style or distinction."

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Christian
Its first meeting of the new church year, was held Tuesday evening by the Young Women's Missionary society of the First Christian church at the home of Mrs. R. L. Montgomery, 1059 West Fifth street. Mrs. C. R. Frazer was in charge of devotionals.

Excellent talks were given by different members, Mrs. J. F. Kiersey speaking on "Americans of Tomorrow" and Mrs. Ruth Nicholson on "Land of all Nations."

With the close of the program came surprise features. In the first place Mrs. Montgomery, the hostess, had planned to surprise her guests by entering with an angel food cake decked with birthday candles, thus apprising them of her birthday. But the secret was already out and she was the most surprised one of the group when she was showered with beautiful handkerchiefs as birthday gifts from her friends. Mrs. Stella Rash had learned the secret and had planned the pleasant event.

Those present included the hostess, Mrs. Montgomery, and Mrs. James J. Kiersey, Edna Taylor, Helen Miller, Anna Hausfield, Myrtle Miller, John Lounsbury, Sue Parsons, Stella Rash, Ruth Jellis, Hallie Waters, Mary E. Langley and the little Misses Doris Hausfield and Ida Montgomery.

First M. E.
The Women's Foreign Missionary auxiliary of the First Methodist Episcopal church had a very interesting meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Allie Fitz presiding. The devotional service was in charge of Mrs. Sarah Hutchins whose subject was "Shepherding the Flock," concluding with a reading entitled "The Cure of the Soul's Discontent."

Letters were read from Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Saunby and Mrs. Betts, the latter vacationing in the Yosemite and the former in the east. Mrs. John Lounsbury, program chairman for the day, introduced five standard bearers who gave a dramatization of Christmas at a mission station. Pearl McMillan and Alice McChesney represented two missionaries and Eleanor Turner, Helen and Irene O'Brien represented Chinese girls in costume, pupils of the mission school. Their subject was so engaging and their rendering so well executed that the auxiliary gave these young ladies and Mrs. Lounsbury a rising vote of thanks. Pearl McMillan added a reading entitled "Lady Drone."

The August meeting will be held on the nineteenth at the Newport Beach home of Mrs. P. A. Robinson when a shower will be made for the Christmas box to be sent to Miss Doris Welles, the society's own representative in the foreign field.

Delta Alpha.
Some twenty members of the Delta Alpha class of the First M. E. Sunday school ignored the heat and met Monday evening for an enjoyable party with the Misses Wild and Mrs. J. D. Glasscock at the latter's home on West Fourth street. Hard times offered the theme of the evening's merriment and costumes worn by the members gave much amusement to all. Miss Etta Hale was awarded a prize as being the most suitably garbed while honorable mention was given Miss Alta Thomas and her costume.

A short business meeting was conducted by the class president, Miss Charlotte Carhart and the question of refurnishing the class room was discussed and a committee named to look further into the matter and report at the next meeting.

One merry game followed another in the social hour which followed the business session, and in the gayety thus engendered, the shabbily clad guests forgot the sudden hot spell and enjoyed the lively games to the utmost.

Crackers and water formed the very appropriate refreshments with which the hostesses regaled their guests, but later, they relented of their parsimony and served truly delicious cake with brick ice cream.

Adding to the pleasures of the evening were several piano selections by Miss Thelma Glasscock and clever ditty readings by Miss Etta Hale. Miss Hattie Smith, a former member of the class, was welcomed as a guest.

Merry Party Enjoys Musical Comedy In Los Angeles

Instead of assembling at the home of some one of their members, there to chat and sew and later to be offered dainty refreshments, the A. D. club girls made their July meeting a theater party in Los Angeles, upon which a little group of husbands accompanied them.

Leaving this city yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, the merry-makers enjoyed an appetizing dinner at the Pig 'N' Whistle they saw—and enjoyed—"Lady Be Good," declaring it a delightful offering.

Those forming the party were Mr. and Mrs. Dean Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, Mr. and Mrs. George Seba, Mesdames, Bess Mathis, Hazel Hargett, Eloise Ray, Hazel Lyman, Sara Rohman, and the Misses Aimee Larson, Gladys Young and Mable Cole.

Hearts Are Played at Birthday Party For Sweet Sixteen

Hearts and flowers reigned Tuesday afternoon at the friendly home of the Harry H. Balls on West Seventeenth street, the Hearts being represented by the exciting game played by the Flowers, otherwise a group of pretty maids, gathered to honor the sixteenth birthday of their young hostess, Miss Josephine Ball.

Card tables were arranged on the spacious porch where cooling punch served by Mrs. Hall during the series of games. Miss Agnes Steward was most successful in avoiding the hearts and at the close of the series, having the fewest to tally, received an attractive prize. Miss Naomi West carried off second honors.

Tables were then cleared and arranged for the serving of refreshments which included bonbons and salted nuts with the ice cream and birthday cake. Everything, from the dainty tints of the refreshments to the flowers and nut-cups of the table appointments, showed the pretty pink and white color scheme.

The hostess, Miss Josephine, was ably assisted in greeting and entertaining her guests, by her two younger sisters, the Misses Maybelle and Winifred Ball and by her mother, Mrs. Harry H. Ball.

Enjoying the party and extending all manner of happy wishes to the birthday celebrant, were the Misses Catherine Walbridge, Lucille Harrison, Miriam Adamson, Mary Blakeman, Thelma Glasscock, Naomi West and Agnes Steward in addition to the hostesses two sisters.

SECRETARIES ALTERNATE AT L. A. EXHIBIT

Secretaries of approximately 10 chambers of commerce in Orange county will alternate in passing full days at the Orange county exhibit in the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, it was announced today by A. L. Oiger, secretary of the Santa Ana chamber, at a meeting this morning of the board of directors of the organization.

This arrangement for having the county represented at the Los Angeles chamber was made by the secretaries at a recent meeting of the Commercial Secretaries Association of Orange County, and is the result of discontinuance by the board of supervisors of the county publicity department.

The experiment is to be tried for two months and probably will be made a permanent arrangement if results are satisfactory. Under the plan, each secretary will have to go on duty for one day every 10 days.

Reopening of the fight for location of the Southern Branch of the University of California was indicated as a possibility by receipts of a letter from James J. Simons, of Wilmington, concerning location of the branch at Beverly Hills. Simons alleges that unfair political actions were responsible for selection of the Beverly Hills site and urges that communities outside of Los Angeles combine in a fight to prevent consummation of the program to establish the university branch on the proposed site.

The board this morning disposed of several matters requiring attention, among them being authorization of officials of the chamber to negotiate a loan of $2500 to clean up obligations on the new building and equipment.

Police Seldom Stung But It's Possible

Officer B. E. Hershey, of the local police force, is rapidly inclining to the belief that he has a bee complex.

About a week ago a bee stung him above his right eye. The eye was closed tight for a day or two, and the swelling extending over the upper part of his face. Just as he had about recovered from the first attack, another member of the bee tribe, stung him in his right arm.

Hershey is today carrying his arm in a sling, after a narrow escape from blood poisoning.

Accidental Death Is Jury's Verdict In Drowning Case

Verdict of accidental death by drowning was returned by a jury at an inquest conducted in Winbigler's Mission Funeral home yesterday afternoon by Coroner Charles D. Brown, into the death of F. H. Martin, 22, of Colton, whose body was recovered at Newport Beach yesterday morning.

Martin lost his life June 28, while bathing off Fifteenth street, Newport Beach. Identification was made by Harry Rouse, contractor of San Bernardino, who recognized the bathing suit he had loaned to Martin.

The body was taken to Colton for burial. Mrs. C. H. Hanifer, mother of the drowned man, resides in that city.

Mrs. Emil Julia Lewis, a practicing lawyer in St. Louis, was the grandmother of five children when she decided to prepare herself to enter the professional field.

FELLOWSHIP IS TOPIC OF TALK BY S. A. PASTOR

One hundred members of the Orange County Masonic club heard a talk on "Fellowship" by Dr. W. E. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, at the monthly dinner meeting held last night in the Masonic temple.

The club's next session will be held at Huntington Beach, August 19, with Robert Speed, master of Jubilee lodge of Masons, Santa Ana, as the principal speaker. Speed will talk on "The Pyramids of Mexico."

"The most pertinent thing in the country today is comingling," declared Dr. Roberts, last night. "This comingling will either lead to conflict or co-operation."

"We must get the spirit of fellowship. Fellowship is the basis of life and until the world realizes this, there will be conflict. When individuals or a group of individuals co-operate with one another, that is a form of fellowship."

"The basis of fellowship lies in three things, a sense of similarity, an ability to see life in relationships, and a genuine affection for folks."

CHILE EXPERT FROM DENVER OPENS PLANT IN SANTA ANA

State-Wide Distribution Is Planned by Owner of New Industry Here

YEAR'S OUTPUT TO AGGREGATE $50,000

Pleasure Trip to Coast Results in E. H. Stokes Becoming Resident

With space 27 by 149 feet leased in the Wilson company's building at First and Poinsettia streets, the E. H. Stokes company, a newly formed firm, has started making and canning chile.

The company is headed by E. H. Stokes, who came to Southern California on a pleasure trip from Denver, and liked Santa Ana so well that he decided within two weeks of his arrival to engage in business here.

The chile will be canned in three sizes, 11 ounce, 20 ounce, and one gallon cans. For the time being, the company will confine its activities to this state. Later, a campaign will be inaugurated to secure business in Oregon, Washington, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah and Mexico.

Plan $50,000 Output

Stokes estimates that the first year's business will approximate $50,000. He hopes to greatly increase this the second year.

In order to acquaint Orange county people with the product, Stokes plans to hold demonstrations in local stores every Saturday. The Smart-Final company, a wholesale firm here, already has made arrangements to handle the chile he says.

Stokes has been connected with the chile business for the last 15 years, during which time he acquired an extensive knowledge of the industry from making to selling. His father is the owner of the Stokes Canning company, Inc., of Denver.

Brother to Assist

The Denver man's brother, E. S. Stokes, who has been golf professional at the Hanford Country club in Kings county, will be connected with the local plant for the time being.

Who's Who in Community Development

The man behind the cigar in the portrait is none other than William Iverson, better known as Bill, who recently opened a real estate office at 309 North Sycamore. Iverson has for the last six months been associated with Carl Mock, realty broker.

Iverson, who is a native of Wisconsin, is a graduate of Ripon college and was studying law when the world war broke out. He was a lieutenant in a flying squadron at Kelly Field, Tex., during the war, after which he went to work in Oklahoma in the producing department of the Prairie Oil and Gas company.

After severing his connection with this firm, he came to Santa Ana and for some time was the assistant superintendent of the Southern Counties Gas company. Iverson is handling a general real estate business, and specializes in business properties.

Bill is one of the organizers of the Santa Ana junior chamber of commerce and is now vice-president of that organization. He is a Shriner.

Bill is popular with all who know him and has made hosts of friends in this city, all of whom anticipate his success in his new business venture.

When asked if he believed in evolution, Bill replied that he was fond of fishing and that he didn't mind warm weather.

COUNTY PORT FEATURED IN N. Y. MAGAZINE

Possibilities of Newport Harbor Told in Lengthy Article in Publication

Potentiality of Orange County Harbor at Newport bay is treated in a three page article in the July issue of "Port and Terminal," a national journal, published in New York.

The recent report of Gen. Lansing H. Beach, formerly chief of engineers of the U. S. army, is used as a basis for the article, with which is a full page map of Newport bay.

Great possibilities for the harbor are seen by "Port and Terminal." It tells of the importance of the bay in the early days of shipping activities and adds that "it is surprising that it has not since received more attention."

Concerning the construction of an east jetty, the journal says: "There has been considerable argument on the merit of the one or two jetty theories and General Beach has settled this matter to the satisfaction of most thinking people with proof that a second jetty will prove the cheapest method of maintaining the entrance channel at the desired depth."

"A summary of the program starts with the building of the east jetty and the repair of the west jetty, to be followed by the dredging of the entrance channel, leaving the work inside the bay to be carried on when the entrance is definitely established."

In the closing section, figures are advanced to prove the value of the port for handling the commerce of the back country of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

BEACH CITY MAY GET NEW HOSTELRY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 16.—That a new three and a half story hotel and apartment house may rise on Ocean avenue soon was declared today by several real estate dealers who have been shown Pasadena people about town.

According to the realtors, a group from Pasadena, led by Mrs. Jane Ellsworth, has been in town for several days looking for a location for a new hotel building.

Negotiations were started yesterday to secure an option of property located between the new James H. Macklin garage building, at the corner of Third street and Ocean avenue, and the Butcher Drug store, at Main and Ocean.

The hotel plans have not been completely outlined, and only tentative plans of the Pasadena people have been told.

Plans for a hotel at the southwest corner of Main street and Walnut avenue are dormant at present. The hotel probably will be built some time this year, however. Plans for a building, which will be a four-story affair, have been outlined by Mrs. Evelyn Chadwick, and Ben Denslow, joint owners of the property and holders of large hotel interests in Long Beach and San Diego.

CONSTRUCTION WORK ON PROPOSED BALBOA CLUB TO START IN NOVEMBER

Construction operations on the proposed club building of the Southern Seas club of Balboa will start in November, according to directors of the organization. Plans are now being prepared by a Los Angeles firm, Ruoff and Munson, it is stated.

With the completion of the edifice, Balboa will have one of the finest clubhouses of any beach city in Southern California, it is said.

The proposed structure will be located on the bay front between Bay View and Fernando streets. Option on practically the entire city block at the site is already held by the club.

In the plans, it is contemplated to install concession stores on the ground floor. An arcade will pass through the building. There will be facilities for a swimming plunge and canoes.

The second floor will be equipped for the social affairs of the club, with a dining room, social hall, lobby, ladies' room and a mezzanine floor for billiards, cards and grill.

Six floors of club apartments will comprise a total of approximately 400 rooms to be rented and sold to members. On the roof, a gymnasium and playground with observation towers will be built.

Prominent men from all over the Southland are backing the undertaking. A membership of 2000 is sought.

Three Local Realty Men Buy Valuable Structure From T. J. Wilson

PLAN TO BUILD WITHIN 2 YEARS

Size of Proposed Building Depends on Conditions, Says Charles Seamans

More activity in good business property in Santa Ana was evidenced yesterday with announcement that Charles Seamans, A. J. Lasby and L. J. Carden had acquired the T. J. Wilson property at 517 North Main street, recently occupied by Lantz brothers as a garage, at a consideration reported to be approximately $40,000.

The lot has a frontage of 50 feet on North Main street, is 125 feet deep, and is covered with a one-story building. The buyers own the adjoining 50 feet north and cornering on Sixth street, the combined lots giving them a frontage of 100 feet on North Main.

Makes Good Profit, Report

Wilson has owned the property for four years and it is understood that the price received was considerably in advance of the purchase price four years ago.

Seamans, Lasby and Carden are well known real estate operators and are interested in a number of prominent business properties. They were high bidders for the northwest corner of Third and Main streets when that property was sold last week in court in settlement of the Andre estate. Their bid was high when the sale went to the court for approval. Their offer, however, was raised, and the corner went to Robert E. Reid, president of the Reid Motor company, local distributor for Buick products.

Size Not Decided

Seamans said today that he and his colleagues did not contemplate any particular improvement in the newly acquired property in the immediate future, but said that the trio did contemplate construction within two years of a new and modern building on the two lots. Whether the new structure will be of two, three or more stories will depend upon developments in the meantime justifying a building of three or more stories, he said.

The sale of the Andre estate property last week and the purchase of the northeast corner of Fourth and Birch streets by a group of local men, and the latest purchase of Seamans, Lasby and Carden are the most important transactions in business real estate made here in some months.

The fact that all of these properties have been purchased by Santa Ana financiers, and at prices considered by some to be rather high, is evidence of faith of the local men in the progress of Santa Ana's business district. It is said that negotiations are pending on a number of other well known pieces of business property, with local men as the prospective buyers.

Concrete Axioms

Good rock, sand and cement will not make good concrete in the hands of inexperienced workmen.

Concrete cannot be stronger than its weakest ingredient. Therefore use sand and rock whose individual strength is great enough for the purpose.

Cement needs water to properly harden. If it is robbed of any of its necessary water its strength suffers. Too much water is as bad as too little. Learn to use the right amount. Don't blame cement for poor work before you have considered every factor that might have contributed to the failure. Men and materials are just as liable to be wrong, and more so, than the cement. Foot Comforts

Persons who come to inspect the residence just completed by John H. Neale, of 427 North Sycamore street, at 325 Wakeham place, will have no difficulty in entering or leaving the house, for it has five separate outside entrances. The dwelling will be open for inspection all day Sunday.

Located on a lot 53 by 125 feet, the residence is of genuine stucco construction. It has seven rooms, with the two front rooms in mahogany and the remaining five in pine. The living room, 22 by 16 feet, has overhead lights.

Heat is furnished by a gas furnace. A feature of the house is the full-sized basement, something seldom found in Southern California houses.

A double garage is situated at the rear.

But How About the BATH ROOM

Of course you are proud of every room in your home except possibly the bath room. Its appearances are marred if the toilet seat is a painted or varnished affair.

Why not have Carlson install a Sani-Seat; it's all white, can't rust, tarnish or turn dull. And the cost is mighty small in comparison with the added appearance.

BUILDERS' QUERIES ANSWERED

By Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America

Q. Will two by three inch up-adobe before placing in the wall, right studs, placed 16 inches apart, be sufficiently strong for a frame bungalow?

A. The city building ordinance provides that all buildings must be erected with two by four inch upright studs in all outside walls. If you are in doubt about the proper method of construction, it would be advisable to consult a reliable architect or contractor or make inquiries at the office of the building inspector.

Q. Will you kindly tell me how to go about filing a lien against a building for money due me for labor?

A. The filing of a lien is a very technical matter and should be carefully done. We are advised that you can secure blank forms from any leading stationery store. Be sure to name the amount, what it is for, with dates, the name of the person who employed you and the name of the owner of the property and the correct legal description of the property. The lien must be signed by you, sworn to before a notary public and filed in the office of the county recorder. It should be filed within 30 days after the filing of the notice of completion or if no notice is filed, within 90 days after completion. Suit must be brought to foreclose your suit 90 days after it is filed.

Q. How can large cracks that have appeared on the outside of my plaster finished house be repaired so that when it rains the water will not run down the cracks and make streaks in the plaster?

A. The entire exterior surface of the house should be given a coat of stucco, provided, however, that the present exterior plaster is hard and in good condition. The stucco will close the cracks, make the house look like new and at the same time eliminate the water marks.

Q. When building an adobe house, is it necessary to wet the

26,800 RUBBER TIPS SENT EAST

A total of 26,800 rubber tips, to be used on the ends of garment hangers, were shipped Monday to a New York firm by the Orange County By-Products company of Santa Ana. The firm here has sold approximately 1,250,000 of the tips to the eastern organization in the past year and a half. Garment hangers and milk bottle cases are also manufactured.

The company is using one of the California Crate company's buildings. All but one of the crate firm's structures are now occupied by various concerns. The Ut-Williams Electrical Products company took over space last week and the Blank and Cannon company has leased ground and will erect a building for the manufacture of glass cylinders.

SPEAKS 12 HOURS TO STONE IMAGE

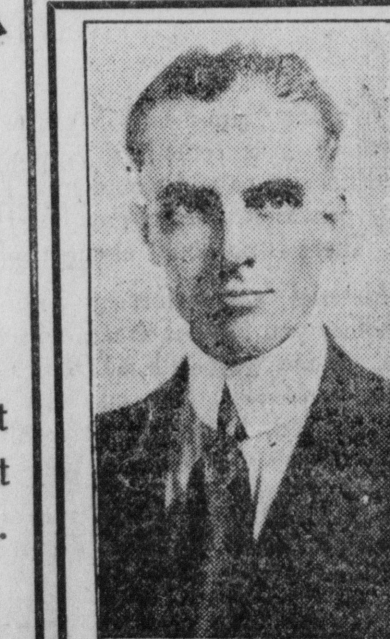

LONDON, July 16.—The phrase "stone dead" has taken on a literal meaning here since Homer H. Hudson, standing in front of the Hudson memorial in Hyde Park, addressed a 12-hour denunciation against the statue and its sculptor without evoking from the statue a single smile or frown for all his hard day's work.

The statue, which was sculptured by Jacob Epstein, former American, as a memorial to W. H. Hudson, famous naturalist, is the weird form of a woman supposed to represent the spirit of the woods. Ever since it was unveiled it has been the object of stormy controversy by London's artistic circles. The "high-brows" have proclaimed it to be a work of art, while the people, whom the high-brows call "low-brows" have described it as "bunk". But all efforts in denunciation of it were outdone when Hague took his stand in front of the statue at 8 a. m. and armed only with a box of sandwiches and a mind crammed full of cutting and sarcastic things to say told the statue what he thought of it and its creator practically without interruption through all of a 12-hour day.

At intervals passersby tarried to listen for a while, but most of the time Hague poured his words into the stone ears of the statue, alone.

SCIENCE WORKS ARE INCLUDED IN NEW BOOKS

Among new books received in the county library this week are two scientific works from the Stanford University press. One of these, "Illustrated Flora of the Pacific States," by Dr. Leroy Abrams, professor of botany at Stanford, includes a complete classification of ferns, mosses and grasses found on the coast.

It is illustrated with what are declared to be remarkably accurate drawings. In the author's words, the purpose of the work is "to furnish an authentic reference that will be of greatest service to the trained botanist, as well as to everyone interested in plant life in the Pacific states."

"Genetic Studies in Genius," by Lewis Madison Terman, head of the department of psychology at Stanford university, is a treatise based on the author's many years of research concerning gifted children. The conclusions arrived at after experimenting with children sifted from California public schools are given. Attention was called to these books by Miss Margaret Livingston, county librarian.

Note Decrease In Farm Population

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The department of agriculture estimates that the farm population of the United States decreased last year approximately 182,000. The rural population was placed at 31,134,000 on January 1, compared with 31,316,000 a year earlier.

The statistics showed varied movements. New England and the South Atlantic states reported net increases of farm population, while the other divisions show losses with mountain states leading in the decline.

Thus, while 2,075,000 persons left the farms last year, 1,396,000 returned to them, and these, with the natural increase of births over deaths of 497,000, reduced the loss in the farm population to 182,000.

Although the balance is still in favor of city-ward migration, the figures were held to show a back-to-the-farm movement. In 1922, the movement from city to farm was 880,000, which was 516,000 fewer than in 1924, while the movement away from the farm was two million, only 75,000 fewer than last year.

Give Women Jury Right In Illinois

CHICAGO, July 16.—Superior Judge Phillip L. Sullivan has upheld the contention of the Chicago League of Women Voters forum that women are eligible for jury service in Illinois. He issued a mandamus ordering the jury commissioners of Cook county to place qualified women on their roles.

Mrs. Hanna B. Fyfe, prominent Oak Park and Chicago clubwoman, was plaintiff, contending that the stipulation in the existing 50-year-old Illinois jury law that "the jury shall consist of 12 men who are qualified electors" was superseded by the nineteenth amendment.

Judge Sullivan held that "women now are the peers of men" and that the constitutional amendment enfranchising women "makes women freemen within the law."

IN WEST END FILMPicturesque frontier life, in towns where gunplay was a daily exercise and bullets settled arguments instead of words, is vividly visualized in "The Rainbow Trail," Tom Mix' latest starring vehicle, which is the current attraction at the West End theater."The Rainbow Trail," one of Zane Grey's pulsating and dramatic narratives of the old west, is another of that famous author's works to be transcribed to the screen by the noted western star.
It follows "The Last of the Dunes," and "Riders of the Purple Sage."
Profusely scattered through the picture are many new Mix thrills.
Lynn Reynolds, veteran director of western dramas, noted for his thoroughness and realism, directs Tom Mix in the latest Zane Grey story.
Anne Cornwall, George Bancroft,
Diana Miller, Lucien Littlefield,
Mark Hamilton, Carol Holloway,
Fred DeSilva and Steve Clemente are cast in the other major roles in support of the western star."ARE PARENTS PEOPLE" AT YOST TONIGHTShe's a sage little girl, is blue-eyed, brown-haired Betty Bronson, with more wisdom in her thoughts than one usually finds in a seventeen-year-old girl.Malcolm St. Clair, director, and Florence Vidor and Adolphe Menjou, co-featured with the heroine of "Peter Pan" in "Are Parents People?" were discussing incompatibility as it applies to married life. There was a reason, for in this Paramount picture they are married, and they are decidedly incompatible. Betty, who was sitting nearby on the set, overheard the conversation.Without in the least intruding
she gave her opinion.
"I believe that half of the responsibility in keeping a home happy depends upon children," she said. "If a child is not quarrelsome, but maintains a serene, pleasant disposition when things go wrong, it is enough to make the parents ashamed of themselves when they nag each other.""Out of the mouth of babes cometh wisdom," commented Menjou, and the discussion broke up.
"Are Parents People," which will be the feature at the Yost theatre beginning tonight, was adapted for the screen by Frances Agnew
from the Saturday Evening Postserial by Alice Duer Miller, author of "Manslaughter." The picture is a true-to-life domestic comedy.
Others in the cast are Lawrence
Gray, now Paramount "find"; Emily Fitzroy, Andre de Beranger,
Mary Beth Milford and William Courtwright."WHITE FANG" OPENS AT WALKER'S TONIGHTCatching the great spirit, the drama, the daring, the cold of the frozen north, and the marvelous dog psychology of the late Jack London with a fidelity that is as remarkable as it is rare, "White Fang," which comes to Walker's theater today is a perfect adaptation of a great novel. It is true to the spirit of London himself and the two sponsors of the picture, Jane Murfin, the adaptor and Lawrence Trimble, the director, deserve the greatest credit for not mutilating the story as books have all too often been mutilated in transposing them to the screen. The gorgeous "Strongheart," first and best of animals on the screen, takes the title role and easily runs away with the acting honors; which is no half-interesting tribute when one stops to consider that Theodore
Von Eltz, Ruth Dwyer and Mathew
Betts play prominent parts in an all-star cast. The story is so well known that it hardly needs repetition; suffice it to say that the atmosphere of the trackless, snowy wastes, including most remarkable shots of the wolf pack circling in the desponding trappers have been reproduced with splendid effect.J. C. OF C. TO HAVE

Ends With BattleLONDON, July 16.—Orange day in Glasgow developed into a serious riot, with 16 arrests, including one woman, and a score of hospital cases.The worst affray was when a band leading an Orangemen's parade was attacked in the street,
the band men using trombones, saxophones and cornets as clubs to beat off their assailants, causing injuries to 10 persons.Mounted police eventually charged the crowd and separated the rioters. One man was shot through the hip. All traffic was tied up for hours and mounted police had a difficult task restoring order in the Scotch city. The disturbance was the worst seen in Glasgow
for many years.HEY

ENGLAND FOR LIVING MANNERLONDON, July 16.—Englishmen know better than Americans how to live to a ripe and contented old age, according to Dr. Charles Mayo, famous surgeon of Rochester, Minn. In an interview, while attending an assembly of American medical men in London, Dr.
Mayo declared that for the use of Englishmen made of their vacations and recreation time was responsible for the large number of men
one finds here living to a healthy old age."It seems to me," said Dr. Mayo,
"that England—through the Englishman's belief in tradition in routine, and in the idea that the more pleasurable life can be made, the better it is—offers its citizens a life which is somewhat more livable than that endured by most Americans. I find here that there is much more out-of-door, open-air life than we have in America.""When the week end comes, London clerks and workmen by the hundreds of thousands head straight for the country and seashore for a complete change of and rest from the routine of their week-day life. This change of activity and scenery is one of the best ways possible to keep from getting 'fagged-out' from one's work."The Englishman is far nearer to nature than we are. He knows in fact what is good for his health in order to keep himself moderately contented. That is not understood by Americans yet. Our "hustle" forbids it—as yet.The tendency of Americans to take their sports too seriously was also deplored by Dr. Mayo as one of the reasons they did not get most possible benefit from the recreations they pursued."When you make a 'business' of your sport," he said, "then one loses in a measure the beneficent result that the exercise should bring. Englishmen are more inclined to take their sports as recreation than are Americans; the latter method the way to win first place, but the first one is the way to live to a happy old age."PHONOGRAPHS Repaired, Fix-

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS ABOUT ST. PAUL MEET

Delegates elected to the convention of Kiwanis International in the future should be an official of the local club and a former delegate to the national convention, in the opinion of F. T. Smith, local agent for the Santa Fe, as expressed yesterday in presenting his convention report to the Santa Ana club.

Smith and H. G. Nelson, principal of Julia Lathrop junior high school, were delegates from the Santa Ana club to the convention held June 22 to 25, in St. Paul, Minn.

Pointing out the advantages of an officer and a former delegate being sent to the convention, Smith said the former delegate would be familiar with convention "ropes" and could do more than one attending for the first time, while an officer of a club would gain by reason of his being familiar with the details of club operation.

Advertise Home City. Smith also said that, in sending delegates from here to a national convention, the Kiwanis and other service clubs, as well as other organizations, should provide their delegates with literature on the city or fruits or souvenirs to stimulate interest of delegates to the assemblies and residents of cities in which the gatherings are held.

You don't fully realize what this would mean in the way of boosting the city to those who are on a convention train or at the convention," Smith said, in suggesting that the club at once take steps for development of a plan for sending fruits and literature with delegates going to the 1926 conference.

In his report, Smith confined himself mostly to merely presenting an outline of programs of the different days of the convention, calling particular attention to the fact that the program was arranged so that conferences on the same subjects were held at a half dozen different points, thus giving all delegates opportunity to benefit by the discussions.

In the past it has been the custom to hold many conferences, but only on one certain subject, the result being that delegates could get only portions of the meetings. The delegates also gave some sidelights on personal experiences of himself and Nelson, alleging amusing situations involving the school principal.

Nelson was scheduled to present some features of discussion on important subjects coming before the convention, but time would not permit his report. His report will be made the first order of business for next Wednesday.

Edwin J. Webb, a member of the Kiwanis club at Beacon, N. Y., was passing through the city and stopped for luncheon with the club. He responded to the request of Chairman W. G. Knox for brief remarks.

San Francisco Is Bigger Than Lena And Max Think

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—The tidings of San Francisco's greatness failed to reach the wilds of Arizona, whence came Max and Lena Rothman.

Mrs. Rothman drew her loped mule back on his haunches at the hall of justice and advised the police that her husband had "come on ahead" and promised to meet her at the restaurant on Market street.

"There were too many of them," she complained. "He came on ahead when a train killed one of our mules. 'I'll be camping at the end of town—bring him there when you find him.'"

Two days later Max blew in and waited Lena. "I'll be at a hangout on Sixth street," he announced.

"For the love of Mike, stay out," begged Lieutenant Fitzhenry. "We're circling the city now to find out which end Lena meant."

TUSTIN GIRL PAYS FINE FOR SPEEDING

Miss Helen Pollard, of Tustin, and Virgil Brakin, of Santa Ana, were yesterday fined $15 each on speeding charges by Judge J. F. Talbot, in city court. Both were said to have been doing better than 35 miles an hour. E. F. Adams paid a fine of $10 for driving at a rate in excess of what the law allows.

Sam Sullivan, of Orange, was assessed a fine of $10 on two counts, one of having no muffler on his machine, the other of failing to halt his car at the boulevard stop at Seventeenth and Main streets. His ingenious plea that his car made such a noise anyway that he did not notice the lack of a muffler, was of no avail.

Robert Grain, of Santa Ana, and N. B. Voorhees, of Pasadena, were fined $2 each for parking overtime on downtown streets.

Fireman Killed In Train Wreck

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., July 16.—The Seaboard Air line's Florida Limited, northbound, was wrecked at Safety Harbor, 20 miles from here yesterday, causing death of the fireman, who was crushed between the engine and tender.

The passengers, none of whom was injured, were transferred to another train.

The tender, baggage and mail car and several of the coaches left the rails. Heavy sand on the tracks was blamed for the accident.

TAKE STEPS TO CHECK SPREAD OF CHILD ILLS

Precautionary measures were taken today by Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, to control and prevent the spreading of infantile paralysis, the presence of which has been reported in various parts of the state.

The action taken by Dr. Presson is in accordance with instructions received from the California state board of health. While there have been a few cases of infantile paralysis in this county, the disease was quickly arrested, due to vigorous measures adopted at the time by health authorities, it was pointed out.

Outlines Preventive Rules. In appealing for co-operation on the part of the public, Dr. Presson outlined the following rules to be observed:

Keep your children off the streets.

Do not let them play with any child or adult who is not entirely well.

Keep sick persons who do not belong to your family out of your home.

Make sure that hands are thoroughly washed before eating.

In case of sickness, observe the following:

If a child or adult in your family appears to be sick or complains of not feeling well, immediately separate that person from the rest of the family, and allow no visitors to enter the home.

Wash Your Hands. After waiting on sick persons, be sure to wash your hands immediately.

Collect nose and throat discharges in paper napkins, or small pieces of cloth and burn immediately.

Infantile paralysis is primarily a children's disease, the mortality being 20 per cent, and many who survive remain disabled throughout their lifetime. Dr. Presson declared, stressing the need for constant vigilance.

No Cause for Alarm. There is absolutely no cause for alarm, the health officer added, and there is little chance for an outbreak of this epidemic if the people as a whole, and particularly the parents, will co-operate with the health authorities. In line with such co-operation, he emphasized the need of personal cleanliness, and urged that the greatest care be taken in observing sanitary rules in preparing and serving food.

150 BOOZE CASES MAY BE DISMISSED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Fifteen hundred liquor cases on the calendar of the federal district court here may be dismissed under the ruling of Judge John S. Partridge, on file today, to the effect that under-cover dry agents must use their own names in filing complaints.

The judge excluded evidence in the case of Antonio Barsi, because one of the agents, Victor Williams Tomara, used the name of Victor Williams in signing a search warrant against Barsi.

"History has raised her warning voice in vain if people still believe that ill methods to achieve a right result are justifiable," said the judge's oral opinion.

The federal district attorney's office announced that the practice by agents of using fictitious names had been abandoned.

3 HELD FOR SLAYING KANSAS CITY, MO., July 16.—

Three men were under arrest here today and were being questioned in connection with the brutal slaying of Burt Lovejoy and George Peters, patrolmen, whose bodies were found February 22 in a booze cache in the river bottoms near here.

Plane Pictures of Mt. Hood Snapped

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—Probably the most unusual pictures ever taken of Mount Hood, Oregon peak which guards over the Columbia river gorge, were obtained from an airplane piloted by Lt. Oakley G. Kelly, of transcontinental fame.

Lieutenant Kelly took the movie cameraman over the mountain and carried him through a downward spiral over the very summit, through a drop of several hundred feet.

The peak of Mount Hood, named after an old British admiral, has been filmed innumerable times, but each time reveals a new change in the snow and icepacks in the clouds.

Steel Man's Body Found In Woods

Lindabury, general counsel and a director of the United States Steel corporation and Prudential Insurance company, was found dead in the woods near his Bernardsville estate yesterday, according to word received here by physician. The body was found near Lindabury's horse, on which he had gone riding early this morning. Death is reported to have been due to natural causes.

SCHOOL EXPENDITURES OF COUNTY LARGER LAST YEAR THAN IN PRECEDING TERM

Expenditures aggregating $1,494,656.56 were made for public education in Orange county for the school year, 1924-25, compared with $1,302,306.16 for the preceding year, according to the annual report of R. P. Mitchell, the county superintendent of education, a copy of which was forwarded today to the state superintendent of public instruction.

LAX METHODS BLAMED FOR FRAUD GROWTH

Greater care in accepting checks from strangers, whether drawn on personal accounts or certified as to amounts, including so-called "cashier's checks" and "traveler's checks" was urged by different speakers at the regular monthly meeting of the California Association of Retail Credit Bureaus, held in Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, according to David H. Betten, secretary-manager of the Orange County Credit Bureau, representing the Santa Ana business interests at the meeting.

The lax methods employed by hotel men, merchants and operators of garages and service stations, in accepting checks from strangers, have contributed to the growing volume of fraudulent check business, several speakers declared.

Should Exercise Care
Equal care should be exercised in accepting so-called cashier's checks and what is known as certified checks, Betten declared, adding that lately check artists, instead of presenting their personal checks, which are generally refused by cautious merchants, are now resorting to checks, purported to have been issued by responsible concerns to themselves, for some alleged service, settlement of claim or the like.

It would be a good idea if the user to accept checks or cash them unless the business standing or identification of the one presenting same, was responsible enough to be given credit," Betten observed.

Reduce Credit Risks
Many other topics were discussed at the meeting, Betten reported, including ways and means to further the legitimate interests of business men and to reduce the risk attending the extension of credit.

Many new amendments to the state laws were discussed in detail, and, while some of the measures introduced in the last session of the state legislature did not get through, they will be presented again at the next session, the credit official asserted.

Life Given Infant By Fire Lungmotor

OAKLAND, July 16.—Apparently born dead, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Smallcomb was brought to life yesterday by a fire department lungmotor and inhalator.

When the child failed to breathe after birth, Mrs. Aurelia Russell, trained nurse, called the fire department. Capt. J. K. Murray and firemen John Weimers and O. H. Bell responded.

After four hours' labor over the still body, the child began to breathe and screamed objections to such treatment.

"All in a day's work," the firemen bashfully said as they left the house.

FRIENDLY TOUR IS PLANNED BY JUNIOR C. OF C.

A "friendship tour" of various cities of the Southland is planned for August 5 by the junior chamber of commerce. A committee to arrange details of the trip will be appointed within the next few days by President Stanley Clem.

Indicating the interest in the trip, the chamber has received a communication from Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, stating that his organization desires to participate.

The route of the trip has not been definitely decided upon. It is likely that a number of beach cities, such as Balboa, Newport Beach, Laguna Beach and Long Beach will be included on the tour.

The suggestion has been made that several of the larger inland communities also be visited. According to present plans, a band will be taken along to provide music at the various stops. Speeches also will be made.

The trip project will come before the chamber directors at the meeting at Kerner's cafe next Monday noon, at which time a definite route will be adopted.

NEW INSURANCE LAW WILL SOON BE EFFECTIVE

Under the terms of an amendment to the California workmen's compensation act of 1917, passed in the last session of the legislature, all employers of labor, with the exception of farmers and employers of domestic help, will be required to carry employer's liability insurance. The new law will go into effect Friday, July 24, according to Mae O. Robbins, local insurance man.

The law formerly "asked" that employers carry insurance in such phraseology that the only method of enforcing it was through civil suits, but failure to carry liability insurance is now declared a misdemeanor, punishable by a $500 fine or six months' imprisonment, or both. Robbins pointed out that the industrial accident commission is empowered to require every employer of labor to file, within 10 days after receipt of the notice to do so, the name of the insurance carrier of the employer. Failure to do this is termed "presumptive evidence," and is considered sufficient to indict the employer.

The only alternative given an employer, who is included under the classification, as made by the new amendment, is that of making a special request for self-insurance, and to do this requires bonding to the extent of $20,000 or more.

Many farmers in the vicinity have carried employer's liability insurance in the past, although not required by the law. Robbins asserted. The recent measure is not considered by insurance men as one which will affect the farmers much, but a notable increase in the amount of compensation insurance written for other employers is expected.

The amendment was an administrative bill, sponsored by the industrial accident commission.

Now-a One-Profit Car in the Quality Field

STUDEBAKER has achieved one-profit manufacture in the quality field. This marks a new era in the automobile industry. Studebaker's achievement eliminates unnecessary profits running up to $500 on a single car. It banishes double overhead. It results in quantity production of quality cars. It vitally affects pricing by establishing a new criterion of value in the fine car field.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago practically all "manufacturers" of automobiles were nothing more than assemblers. They purchased motors, bodies, tops, axles, etc., from parts makers who were the manufacturers in reality.

On this basis it was easy to become an automobile "manufacturer," and more than five hundred makes of automobiles have had their day in the American market and disappeared. They are represented only by "orphan cars" with practically no resale value.

Notwithstanding this writing on the wall many manufacturers still assemble their product, piling profit upon profit for the ultimate purchaser to pay. Each profit which a maker pays to a body builder or parts supplier enters into his costs just as though he had spent the money for steel or plate glass or upholstery. Although it represents no value he not only passes it on to the purchaser but figures his own profit on top of it.

The Ford is a one-profit car and reigns supreme in its field.

In the fine car field Studebaker—and Studebaker alone—now offers the American public one-profit values.

During the past seven years, when demand exceeded supply, Studebaker has been plowing earnings back into plants and machinery until we are now able to make this announcement.

Foundries, stamping mills, machine shops, are now complete. As final links in the chain of one-profit production, the enormous Studebaker body plants have been operating for months at peak capacity. Resources totaling one hundred million dollars are concentrated on the production of this one-profit car.

No other individual manufacturer in the world (except Ford) possesses such facilities for the complete manufacture of automobiles.

That is why Studebaker is able to put finer steel, finer wood, finer upholstery, better workmanship, hundreds of thousands of miles of re-

Why Studebaker is the "one-profit" car

There are more than 60 makes of passenger cars built in the United States, but very few are manufactured complete in the plants of the producers who sell them.

Only 42 build all their own motors—and one of the 42 is Studebaker. Of the 42 which claim to make their own motors only 14 make the iron castings, stampings and forgings which go into their motors—and one of the 14 is Studebaker.

Only 5 make all their own bodies and one of the 5 is Studebaker. Only 2 make all their own motors, bodies, clutches, springs, axles, gear sets, differentials and steering gear. One of these 2 is Studebaker and the other is Ford.

serve transportation, into every car—yet keep down the price to you.

This sound manufacturing principle not only holds down price, but it insures a better car regardless of price. The car is not a patchwork, but a unit.

Last year at the New York and Chicago automobile shows four well-known automobile manufacturers exhibited coaches mounted with the same body—a body made from the identical dies, jigs and fixtures. Certainly these manufacturers must have sacrificed engineering advantages in chassis construction to accommodate this "standardized" coach body built by an outside supplier.

Contrast this with Studebaker, where the entire car is designed and built as a unit—and engineered complete. This construction means (1) longer life—(2) greater comfort in riding—(3) greater freedom from repair expense—(4) greater resale value.

With the advent of this one-profit-one-overhead plan of motor car manufacture, it is folly today to buy a car by the same comparisons you used yesterday. Today you must measure all cars with this "one-profit" Studebaker.

One-fourth of all American passenger cars built today belong in the fine car field—a total of 57 different makes selling above one thousand dollars.

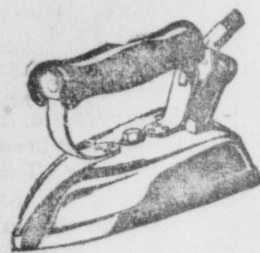

There are 21 Studebaker body styles available on three different chassis. The Standard Six Models, 113-inch wheelbase, 50 h.p. engine, $1125 to $1600 f.o.b. factory. SANTA ANA, CALIF.

Santa Ana, California.

Gentlemen:

I am pleased to advise that the automatic pressing iron which you left with me for test as to its safety, is absolutely fool-proof and will eliminate the fire hazard caused by the careless use of the ordinary type of pressing iron.

On July 10th and 11th, I tested the automatic electric iron, in every way that would cause a fire by carelessness in using pressing irons; after making the test, I am convinced that the automatic electric iron will reduce the fire hazard in the home, and will eliminate the call of the fire department to many a home, where the automatic iron is used.

Very truly yours,

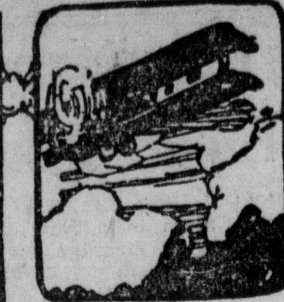

JOHN LUXEMBOURGER,
Chief of Fire Department.

LAGUNA BEACH RESIDENTS SEE CATALINA FIRE

LAGUNA BEACH, July 16.—With a brush fire burning out the canyon and seemingly getting worse all the time and with the smoke rising into the air for hundreds of feet over Catalina island, the beach visitors had plenty of picturesque additions to their otherwise uneventful day. Catalina island, lying clear to the gaze, looked as though all of Avalon was on fire as the smoke seemed to come from the hollow in the island associated with the spot where Avalon should be. But, as the smoke rose hour after hour, the general opinion seemed to be that the mountain above the town must be on fire. The smoke, rising in a straight column, looked like the pictures of the Indian warning signals that used to frighten early settlers.

After a little time, a low fog edged in around Avalon entrance, completely shutting out the view of the smoke column, except for the very tip of it. Finally the smoke made the fog pink, the island seemingly bathing in a pink mist with the full rays of the sun at noon day shining down.

Add to this the fearsome proclamation of the awful tidal wave, made by some foreteller of great events and the beach crowd was a bit flincky. The tidal wave was scheduled for the fifteenth by the south sayer, but no one in Laguna Beach has moved into the hills as yet.

CALL ELECTION ON BONDS FOR H. B. SCHOOL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 16.—Voters here will express their opinion on a $300,000 bond issue for a new high school at the polls August 15, following the passage of a resolution last night by the local high school board calling a bond election for that date.

The resolution was passed after school trustees had thoroughly investigated the bond issue and the assessed valuation of the district. With the passage of the resolution calling the election came the announcement today from Thomas Berry, consulting engineer, that the new school plant planned by the trustees would cost nearly $500,000. Approximately $200,000 of the amount will be paid out of the school treasury, which is reported to be in excellent condition.

The new plant will consist of three separate buildings according to Berry. It will be one of the largest and most completely equipped buildings in Southern California. Members of the school board, accompanied by Berry, have visited practically every other school in Southern California and have selected what they think are best features of each structure for inclusion in the new buildings here.

A large number of recitation and administration rooms, study hall, domestic science accommodation, science laboratories, offices, for the principal, vice principal, and dean of girls, rest rooms, and a cafeteria will be included in the main building.

A large gymnasium will also be erected. It will be in a separate building. Another building will house the mechanical arts department, including the automobile work, wood work, mechanical drawing, and electrical departments.

If the bond election carries in August, work will probably start within two months on the erection of the new buildings. It is expected that the plant will be ready for school in 1926.

ORANGE RESIDENTS URGED TO CONSERVE WATER TO PREVENT HEAVY DRAIN ON RESERVOIR

ORANGE, July 16.—That Orange residents must conserve on water, using it as sparingly as possible, was the warning issued by Water Superintendent W. J. Richardson following the startling disclosure that twice as much water was consumed here Monday as that actually pumped from the dwindling city wells.

In the face of an impending water famine, due to the dropping water levels, Orange on that day used more water than it has ever consumed in its history, according to the water superintendent.

Approximately 1,265,000 gallons were consumed for the 24 hour period starting at 6 a. m. Monday. Only twice in past history has the daily consumption passed the million gallon mark, according to Richardson.

The heaviest consumption was reached between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock at night, when 480,000 gallons were used in the two-hour period, making a pumping average of more than 270 miners inches per minute, whereas the city well capacity totals only 140 miners inches per minute.

Draw from Reservoir
"In other words," said Richardson, "Orange used nearly twice as much water during that period as could be pumped from the wells. The deficit, of course, had to be drawn from the reservoir."

Abandon Effort Of Body Recovery At Balboa Wharf

BALBOA, July 16.—After nine hours of search combing the floor of the ocean off the Balboa wharf, hope was abandoned yesterday for recovering the body of Jack Mudd, who was drowned when he fell overboard from the launch Gloria D Friday night.

That the body has been swept by currents from the place of the accident is the conclusion reached. "No trace of the drowned man was found," Edmund DeFever, San Pedro deep sea diver, reported. "The ocean bed is smooth here and there was no sea-weed that might have entangled the body."

A space of 450 feet square on the bottom was systematically searched. While parents and relatives of the victim watched, the diver again and again went to the bottom in his diving outfit for hour trips. The "Balboa" launch was moored at the place the accident occurred and from it the diving operations were carried on.

The drowning took place here Friday night when Mudd disappeared as he fell overboard from the Gloria D in a faint. Though an expert swimmer and deep-sea diver on the glass bottom boat at Catalina, he lost command of his faculties in his helpless condition.

ENGELHARDT IS GIVEN BID TO MISSION PLAY

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, July 16.—A special invitation was dispatched to Fray Zephyrin Engelhardt, O.F.M., foremost authority on the history of California in early mission days, to be an honored guest at the mission pageant-play of San Juan Capistrano, the sixth performance of which will be given at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the patio of the ancient church, 53 miles south of Los Angeles.

Fray Engelhardt, an octogenarian who has given his life to a study of Franciscan history is resident at the Santa Barbara Mission, and since reconstruction work is started there following the earthquake, he also has been invited to become a permanent guest at San Juan Capistrano, by Rev. St. John O'Sullivan, resident priest.

Author of "Missions and Missionaries," "Franciscans in California," "Franciscans in Arizona," "Holy Man of Santa Clara," and numerous other historical works, Fray Engelhardt's chronicles of the San Juan Capistrano Mission form the basis for the colorful play by Garnet Holme of actual episodes in the history of the ancient church as thrilling as any drama of the stage.

For the first time at Sunday's performance, a new episode will be presented in the pageant-play, based on a humorous incident of the time when the mission was captured by pirates which recently came to the attention of Holme.

L. Wood White, as Sergeant Marcos, pays court to three romantic señoritas, safe in the knowledge that he soon is to be dispatched on a mission to Mexico. Through permitting three Spanish prisoners to escape, he is punished by being forced to remain at the mission, to face the wrath of the indignant sweethearts, who find him out.

The episode is said to be one of the most comical ever presented in an outdoor play.

Musical Prodigy Is Guest at Laguna Beach

LAGUNA BEACH, July 16.—A child wonder, musically, is a guest of the Roy A. Ropes. She is little 12-year-old Patricia Duffie of Oakland and she plays Chopin, the other classics, and composes interesting bits for her own enjoyment. Last Monday evening she played for Miss Anna Priscilla Risher, the former head of music at the Cumnack School, Los Angeles, who thought the child showed much promise. Although musically little Patricia is far ahead of other children of her age, yet in every other way she is an unspoiled, charming little girl who likes to play.

Give Reception To New Pastor At Laguna Beach

LAGUNA BEACH, July 16.—The congregation of the Community church gave a reception to Rev. and Mrs. Raymond I. Brahm last Thursday evening in the new home of the pastor and his wife. The reception was to have been held at the request of the young minister and his wife, who wanted their congregation to see the new house, the plans were changed. The refreshments, the decoration and the entertainment were furnished by the church people.

"I think," said the Rev. Mr. Brahm, "that the get-together spirit shown will be of great value to us in the church work. I mean to make use of the spirit of good will so apparent for putting over church work."

Mr. and Mrs. Brahm have but recently come to Laguna Beach to live and they are delighted with the church and the town. The minister's study looks out over the broad Pacific and the Laguna shore line. In expressing his admiration Rev. Brahm said:

"The artists are not the only people in Laguna Beach who draw inspiration from a beautiful view."

CITY OFFICERS ARE ASKED TO SAVE FUNDS

FULLERTON, July 16.—Mayor H. H. Crooke told heads of departments, who appeared before the city council last night, that budgets for the coming year would not be prepared, or accepted until a time when the city knows the exact amount of money to be received for the year.

He praised the efforts of the departments to keep within their budgets during the last year, and said that everything possible would be done to advance their amounts for the coming period, but said that he was of the opinion the amounts would be even lower for this year.

Police Chief O. W. Wilson appeared before the board of trustees, and asked for many improvements in the department for the coming year, including a complete telephone service over the city, a new arrangement for furnishing cars for officers, and improvements on the present police station.

Wilson asked that the present police cars be done away with, as the two machines are costing the city approximately $165 per month, not including gasoline and oil. He suggested that each officer be asked to furnish his own machine, and be paid $45 per month for its use. In this way, he said, the department would have seven cars, at the same rate that three could be maintained at the present rate.

E. A. Beard, of the telephone company, was introduced by the chief, and asked that the city remove the system of red lights which are now used to call officers to the police station at night. He offered several suggestions for improvement over the present system.

Mayor Crooke said that he was glad to know the needs of the police department, and instructed City Manager W. C. Record to confer with Chief Wilson regarding the matter, and present actual costs at the next meeting of the council.

THE OUTSIDERS' VIEWPOINT

The suggestion that Santa Ana's city limits be extended to include areas to the south and north calls for comment. The suggestion was made this week at a meeting of the Santa Ana Realty Board. It differs from preceding suggestions on annexation only in that the proposal as discussed at the realty board meeting on this occasion apparently does not contemplate taking in Tustin or Orange or a shoestring to the harbor. The amount of territory that would be included, were the suggestion carried out, is not so extensive as others have thought advisable.

Annexation is a bargain affair. In order to meet with the approval of the city that is to do the annexing and the area that is to be annexed, there must be mutual benefits, or advantages to each. The reason why Santa Ana would want an increased area would be to increase its taxable properties and to control the subdivision, development and health conditions of the area, so that they might be in accord with the mutual interests of the entire community of which the new area would become a part. The owner of property in the area to be annexed naturally wants to know what municipal benefits his property is to receive. Is his property to be given the benefit of Santa Ana's sewer system? Will he have city water piped to his property? Will he have garbage collection, street repairs, police protection and other municipal services? In other words, what is he going to get in return for the city taxes that he will pay if his property is taken into the city?

It is our opinion that it is useless to talk about annexing more territory to Santa Ana unless we can answer these questions to the satisfaction of those interested in the areas that we propose to annex. In any endeavor to carry out an annexation project, the first step to be taken, in our opinion, is a conference between representative citizens of the city with representative citizens of the areas that are suggested for annexation. Santa Ana has certain tangible assets, and these, we feel sure, would prove to be of greater value to an area that might become a part of the city than those living in that area realize. No doubt we can talk annexation with better success when we have developed a greater water system than we now have. Our sewer system in itself is an argument that brings respectful consideration to any un-surveyed section. The physical possibilities of connecting areas suggested for annexation to the sewer system would be of paramount importance in the discussion that would ensue, should a conference such as we have suggested be held.

Santa Ana's city limits ought to be extended. That we believe. But we can't extend them without the consent of those we would like to bring under our city government. And we can't get that consent without offering advantages commensurate with the increased taxes annexed territory would have to pay. With respect to some territory, and by adopting a liberal policy in the matter of annexation, we could, and we believe we should, offer such advantages. But in any case let us not rush into annexation projects without careful survey and due consideration.

Evolution seems a scandalous thing to W. J. Bryan, but the current trial involving that theory is a lot less scandalous than many the public has had to endure in recent years.

IN JAIL FOR SPEEDING

Jail sentences for speeding are quite the ordinary thing nowadays. A Los Angeles athlete of more or less note was sentenced to 15 days by Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison, and the occurrence attracted a small newspaper head, altogether about three inches of space in a column of the newspaper. Had this same thing happened eight or ten years ago, the young man and his sojourn in jail would have been given banner lines and pictures galore. Also, his fate would have brought forth a lot of sympathy from numbers of persons who believed that the justice of the peace who was jailing speeders was hurting the town.

But today we are unanimous in our belief that recklessness on the highways is deserving of rigorous and vigorous treatment. Speeding as speeding is not frowned upon now quite so severely as it was three or four years ago, but speeding as recklessness and as a menace to life is regarded as a real offense worthy of jail. Justice Morrison, in his consistent policy of sending reckless drivers to jail, we are sure, has the backing of the community, even though the sentencing of a promising young athletic hero does fail to draw down any large amount of publicity. Morrison seems bent upon doing his duty regardless of newspaper space and newspaper stories.

Reading that there are 299 busses now in the Yellowstone, not to mention several hundred private cars, a nature-lover begins to wonder whether it isn't possible to make national parks too popular.

NO MORE POLAR PLANES

Airplanes, after all, will not do for North Pole flights. This is the mature judgment of Amundsen and Ellsworth, the only explorers who have yet tried such a method. Never again, they say, will they attempt polar exploration with planes.

They declare heavier-than-air craft impractical in the Arctic because of the uncertainty of landing conditions there. Their experience has shown them that the ice is nearly always too rough to alight on, and in alighting on the water—when water is available—they are liable to be crushed by the ice masses always moving across the face of that icy sea.

The dirigible looks more practical to them. "A lighter-than-air craft," Ellsworth explains, "could always avoid being crushed in the ice by hovering, or by keeping its weight off the ice through its gas content." So they may try again for the Pole some time in a Zeppelin.

Meanwhile MacMillan is going right ahead with his plans to use airplanes in the Arctic. His situation, however, is somewhat different. He is not seeking the Pole, which is known to be a mere mathematical point in the middle of the Arctic ocean, but is exploring the area immediately north of Canada and Alaska, with a view to finding land, and never going far from land. He may find planes more useful for that purpose.

The verdict against planes may not apply to Antarctic exploration, either, because the South Pole is in the midst of a great continent, rising to a considerable elevation above the sea, and should offer far better landing facilities than the Arctic.

Mountain Road Vital

San Bernardino Sun.

Suggestion for an organized effort to clarify the highway situation in the San Bernardino mountains was certain to come sooner or later. It is time that San Bernardino arranged a show-down to determine whether certain Los Angeles interests are so all powerful that they can even reach into this county and shape the destinies of traffic and therefore of business.

There is a chapter in Los Angeles' code that provides that tourists should see Los Angeles first—and last for that matter. It has always worried Los Angeles that the Cajon Pass boulevard, built exclusively by the taxes of San Bernardino county but now maintained by the state, leads to San Bernardino. One of the pet dreams of Los Angeles is that a cut-off shall some day be built from Devore or Verdmont leading west, eliminating any chance that a motorist would spend a dime or a dollar in San Bernardino.

For a year or more there has been a new project more or less quietly discussed. It calls for a road from Verdmont east to join the Crest highway near Crestline, thus providing a new approach to the Rim of the World. If constructed it would be by joint federal and state action and would therefore be far superior to and would succeed the Waterman canyon route in the favor of motorists. It would likewise be a link in a great scenic highway serving the Los Angeles county playground and Swarthout canyon.

The building of the Verdmont entrance into the San Bernardino mountains would force the cut-off to the west. Either road would damage San Bernardino and Colton. Both would be disastrous.

To permit hundreds of thousands of people to use a road that would cross the Devil canyon watershed from which the city secures much of its domestic water is not to be thought of, and this will be one of the grounds upon which San Bernardino will ask for the abandonment of talk of re-routing such a well-defined highway as the Rim of the World.

But there is still another impressive argument. The roads of the San Bernardino mountains were built originally by the taxpayers of the county without either federal or state aid. These county-built roads are still the principal highways of the mountains. It would be highly unjust for any influence, regardless of the motive, to now propose to build a new approach to this highway system that would do material damage to communities which paid for these original roads.

The government is interested because the proposed new road would also serve as a firebreak. The forestry service could far better think also of justice and build a firebreak entirely independent of a highway system.

An excellent highway can be built in Waterman canyon so state surveys show, and this should be the route. Community development has been founded on this route and traffic.

Letting Go In Nicaragua

Fresno Republican.

It has taken the United States just 13 years to let go of Nicaragua, after having gotten the bear by the tail late in the administration of President William Howard Taft.

The problem has been of almost as great difficulty as in the Philippines, although by no means so formal. There have been about as many complications, with the general theories of American responsibility and the general fact of American interests. There have been the cynics who have declared that the United States was there to coerce the poor unfortunate natives, who otherwise would have self government, and there have been the frantic idealists, who have seen in the presence of Uncle Sam an unmixed good for the uplift of the benighted heathen who otherwise would have no democratic advantages and no education in popular government.

This appears to be the first time in the course of the 13 years that the United States could conscientiously let go. It has always wanted to let go. It is no pleasure to administer any country, especially a Latin American country. It is no pleasure to be the subject of adverse criticism at home, or of resentment in Central and South America. Though such wise opposition theories of politics as those of Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge, the duty as has been the obvious one of staying where there was a definite reason to stay, and hoping that the time would soon come when no shots would be fired, no penalties laid on American supporters when the Marines would be withdrawn.

Now Secretary Kellogg has found his chance, and has seized it.

And doubtless the American government will be a long time going in again, except on the most acute provocation.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

The proper way to destroy all the flies is to make it impossible for them to breed. They breed in filth, and as long as they live they have a habit of straying back to filth as often as possible.

On their feet are thousands of small hairs, and these pick up germs and dirt, which are wiped off on food.

Some mothers permit their children to "suck" on a piece of candy, over which the flies crawl as often as they can find the candy out of the child's mouth.

Restaurants place samples of pie out on a counter for the flies to sample first. Often the pie is under a shelf, out of sight of customers, but easily found by flies.

So many unpleasant things have been said about the fly that he is getting less popular all the time. In a few more years the self-respecting housewife will be just as horrified to find a fly in the house as she now is to find a bedbug on the bed. The fly is much the worse of the two.

Lincoln, too, Was Discouraged

Modesto News-Herald.

Probably the easiest thing in the world for most of us is to become discouraged.

It's inevitable that at one time or another we feel that our efforts are being wasted and that it isn't much use to try any longer.

Did you know that when Abraham Lincoln was 44 he wrote a letter to a friend declaring that his career seemed doomed to end in disappointment, and expressing discouragement in the strongest possible terms?

Not all of us, of course, can rise from our discouragement to do what Lincoln did.

But it's worth remembering. It ought to help spur us on to new endeavor the next time we think we're out of luck.

Worth While Verse

STRAYS

Beneath a bench he heard a stir,
A muffled whimper, and a cur
Crept to his feet and laid its head
Upon his knee! Its sad eyes plead
For friendship. Freak that might have been
A bit of any breed you've seen
On earth, with drooping tail that wagged
When words were kind, torn ears that sagged.
And fell when scornful feet would wrench
Away, it sought from bench to bench,
Hope always crowded out by fight,
The master who is each dog's right.

One let it lie beside him and Cupped its cool muzzle in his hand.
The mongrel snuggled, warm and safe,
Protected by its brother wail.

—John Hanlon in the New York Times.

CRUSHES IMPERTINENCE

Pierre Renaudel, member of parliament and strong advocate of a capital levy, who with Leon Blum shares the leadership of the Socialist party, completed a full course of study in veterinary surgery, but never practiced. He branched out into journalism and later into politics. His political enemies often refer to him with sarcasm and scorn as "the vet."

"Are you really a veterinary surgeon?" one of his millionaire colleagues from the Right parties asked him the other day at the close of a heated debate in the finance committee in which M. Caillaux opposed and M. Renaudel championed a capital levy. "Why do you ask?" queried Renaudel naively. "Are you ill?" —New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Washin' Up

Hal Cochran's
DAILY POEM

Get out the bucket, the chamois and hose, and roll up your sleeves for a spell. Put on your boots, and an old suit of clothes. The auto's not lookin' so well.

Whence came the dust that has buried your car? You'd best run the bus on the rack. Hop to it, man, show how peppy you are, and bring the old shinness back.

Bet you've been drivin' the family around on the roads that are open and free. Rollin' along brings the dust from the ground. Why, the same thing has happened to me.

Call to your youngsters, and let them assist. Turn on with interest that's keen. See that no part of the auto is missed. Doll up your bloomin' machine.

When you have finished, your fever will burn, to ride in the open, and then, you can look forward, upon your return, to washin' the auto again.

Water for the New West

"About 20,000,000 acres of desert, or semi-arid land, have already been made fruitful in the West by water and because of this development, the West has great banks, great universities, great industries, the most valuable and productive farms in our nation, great cities and a great demand for 'service,' which a multitude of utility companies now have for sale."

This is the statement of John Dwight Neale in an article entitled "Giving Water to the New West" and which appears in the current issue of Southern California Business, the official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

"Irrigation in the West has shown that it is not something which is a fad or superficial idea which will soon be forgotten," says Neale. "About $800,000,000 has been invested in bringing land and water together in the West. The annual value of the crops raised by irrigation on account of this investment now exceeds the total investment in all irrigation works."

"Has America or the world ever made another such investment? About one billion dollars annually in crop value is only a small part of the result of this nation-building enterprise. Great industries have been built up and our natural resources have been developed on the sure and firm foundation of 'A Western Agriculture.' This $800,000,000 investment is not only the West's insurance policy but has made it. 'Only in the further intelligent and aggressive development and settlement of the remaining 100,000,000 acres of arid land waiting for water to give it life can the Pacific Southwest's rightful destiny be obtained and its place in the sun made secure.'"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

The porcupineapple never into his pocket—to make him caught up to the snail-boat, so lighter he said—and stuck a pin where on the edge of the brim of his huge hat. Instantly it started to buzz, the pin-wheel did, and the man began to rise. "Good-bye!" he called. "Sorry I can't take you, but this is a one-passenger car. I'll build a rumble-seat sometime and come and get you."

Way he sailed through the air before the astonished children had a minute to ask him about the Fairy Queen's honey-bees. When they turned around, all the puppy-dogs and kittens were gone, too. "This is the queerest place yet," said Nick. "Nothing stays long enough for you to do anything."

"I'll stay," said another voice. The Twins turned and saw a sort of telegraph pole with about ten faces painted all over it in bright colors.

"I'm a regular stick-in-the-mud," said one of the faces. "They call me a totem pole. But I don't know why. I never told anything anywhere and I've been here for so many years I've started to count backwards."

"That's true," agreed all the other faces solemnly. "But we've improved our time. We've learned music. One of us sings tenor, and one bass, and one toots like a whistle and one goes dum-dum like a drum, and one squeals like a violin. We have a whole orchestra. Please turn that knob! Thank you."

The totem pole then played a tune, the queerest tune the children had ever heard. It really sounded like a dozen wild animals all yelling to be fed.

"It's we who are queer," thought the Twins politely. "It is most likely considered fine music here. But it has nothing to do with bees."
